BULLETIN.

Metropolis, Ill., May 9.—(AP)—

Five persons were killed by a tornado which struck New Columbia, near here, late tonight.

Gales accompanied by heavy rains, hail and lightning swept over Chicago and the suburbs late yesterday afternoon, causing the deaths of four men, injuries of at least twenty persons and immense property damage.

Surface and elevated line trains in nearly all sections were delayed; some of the main automobile highways, including Sheridan road in Evanston, were blocked by fallen trees and north shore interurban line service was completely disrupted for hours when ten miles of trolley wires south of Glenview were blown down.

Four Killed Outside City.

The storms were general in many parts of Illinois, northern Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan. Downstate four deaths were reported, one at Hinckley, south of DeKalb, one at Rushville, and another at Astoria. At Ossceola, Ind., eight miles from South Bend, a man was killed and several others injured when houses and barns were overturned by the wind. Eleven persons were injured in West Frankfort.

During the afternoon the temperature in Chicago rose to 86 degrees, the highest of the year. The official prediction for today is cloudy and much cooler, with strong shifting winds.

Guy H. Biddy, 43 years old, of Gunderson and Sinclair avenues, Berwyn, was struck by lightning and killed as he was attaching a radio aerial on the roof of his home.

The other local victims of the storms owed their deaths to the picking up of live wires blown to the ground. Frank Kras, 16, of 10345 Vincennes avenue, seized a light wire near his home and was instantly killed. Anthony Maggio, 49, of Linden avenue and Jackson boulevard, Melrose Park, grasped a charged wire not far from his residence. Jacob Hirsh, 38, of 3747 Leavenworth, picked up the end of a trolley wire that had been blown down at Spaulding and Lawrence avenues and was killed.

Loop Scaffolds Topple.

From all parts of Chicago and from practically every suburb came reports of broken windows, chimneys toppled over, trees uprooted, telephone service interrupted, and traffic delays. Several persons were injured in the loop when temporary wooden structures on buildings under construction were torn down.

The most spectacular damage was the blowing away of upper part of the hoisting elevator framework on the tower of the Mather building, being erected at 75 East Wacker drive. The tower is 472 feet above the ground and is the highest in the loop district.

Huge beams 6x8 inches, from the top 30 feet of the hoisting scaffold, were hurled down into Wacker drive and the Michigan river by the swift winds.

Eight iron cotters, weighing 100 pounds each, were torn from the tower on the forty-second story level, causing the iron girders as the floor under them and the elevator at the side were carried away.

Win Battle with Death.

They clutched the steel beams and managed to hold on as the gale whirled about them. After a battle of nearly twenty minutes the wind was tamed and they crawled down to safety.

The men are: J. Monse, 324 West Adams street; Arch McIntyre, 2304 West Adams street; William Coleman, 322 West Huron street; James Walker, 2000 West Harrison street.

announced the verdict. Then each member was polled and nodded in assent.

The jury convicted Mrs. Snyder on the first ballot. Then they voted on Gray. Three jurors were not quite clear as to the proposition they were voting on. There were nine votes of "guilty," two of "no," and one blank on this poll.

It developed that the three jurors were merely puzzled on a technical point and not in doubt as to their stand on Gray. On the second ballot on the coroner's salesman twelve votes of "no" were cast.

The jurors were unanimous in believing Ruth Snyder lied.

They were unanimous in believing Gray told the truth—but they could not see where it excused him.

There was no demonstration when the verdict was returned. As Justice Scudder entered the courtroom in his flowing black robes, attendants whistled threats of imprisonment for any one that made the slightest noise or attempted to leave the room.

RUSH TO SEE SLAYERS

The day was occupied with summing up by counsel for both defendants and the brief summation of the state, followed by Justice Scudder's charge to the jury. After the court's charge there was no demonstration when the verdict was returned. As Justice Scudder entered the courtroom in his flowing black robes, attendants whistled threats of imprisonment for any one that made the slightest noise or attempted to leave the room.

"Gentlemen, you may retire."

Immediately there was a rush toward the front aisles, where the little coroner's salesman and his former schoolmates were seated at the counsel tables. Reporters and court attendants were brushed aside as people rushing toward the doors were batted over. The judge had left the room and the jury had retired and the mob was determined to see the crimson couple about which they had heard so much.

Scene Like a Side Show.

They brushed shoulders with both of the defendants and expressed their varying opinions right in the prisoners' faces. There was no need for a side show banner to cry:

"Step this way to see Judd, the Scud, the Man, and the Informer Ruth, the Magnetic Entomologist."

The mob knew the pair it wanted to see, and many a finger was stuck almost against the nose of Ruth Snyder, and finally Judd Gray took his glasses off—as he usually does in any crisis.

When some semblance of order had been restored and a part of the mob of clawing, scratching, and fainting women had been shoved through the huge oak doors and pushed on down three flights of stairs and out into a gloomy and rainy day, close friends of the prisoners were permitted to chat with them.

Widow Holds Her Court.

The blonde widow remained seated and held her court—while her mother, Mrs. Josephine Brown, patted her on the back and spoke comforting words into her ear. Several others crowded around her and Dana Wallace, who had spoken for almost two hours in her defense, and other lawyers put on cheerful faces and sought to bolster up her courage.

The 40-year-old woman—for she has remained butch—responded cheerfully, but she did not need their aid, for she still apparently maintained an abiding trust in the twelve mere men who held her life in their hands.

She charmed Judd Gray at her first

SIX WOMEN HAVE PAID DEATH PENALTY, ONE IN CHAIR, IN NEW YORK

New York, May 9.—[Special.]—Five women have been hanged and one electrocuted in New York state.

The only woman ever to die in this state in the electric chair was Mrs. Martha Place, who was put to death on March 21, 1899, for the murder of her stepdaughter in Brooklyn. The first woman to die by hanging was

Mrs. Margaret Houghtaling, alias Peggy Denimora. She was put to death in Hudson on Oct. 17, 1817, for slaying her baby. Another woman, afterwards, on her death bed confessed the crime.

Mrs. Elizabeth von Volkenburg, a husband poisoner, was hanged in Johnstown on Jan. 24, 1846. A Mrs. Binkley of Utica, also husband poisoner, was hanged in Whitesboro in 1849. Mrs. Ann Hoag was the next woman to die. She went to her death on the scaffold on May 7, 1852, in Poughkeepsie. Her paramour, who aided her in the slaying of her husband, also was hanged.

Mrs. Roxalana Druse died on the gallows for strangling her husband. She was put to death with two male companions who aided her in the killing on Feb. 27, 1887.

meeting with him, and it was her logic that with two weeks to work in she had charmed the twelve men who watched her so closely from the jury box.

Judd Gray appeared more as a spectator than anything else today. When his friends, including his mother, Mrs. Margaret Gray, came to him after the jury had withdrawn, he spoke to them calmly and turned to shake hands with a well-wishing stranger—in true drummer fashion.

If he had a single care about the verdict those twelve men were deliberating over it was that they must make out the same punishment to the woman he once called "Momsie."

State Demands Death.

Spurred in his fiery denunciation neither of the two who, a little earlier waged their last desperate battle of wits against each other, District Attorney Richard S. Newcombe demanded that the jury find both of the defendants guilty of murder in the first degree.

But first, the seemingly futile pleas of the defense attorneys were hurled at the jury. Long before Millard, senior counsel for Gray, had finished his exhortation members of the jury apparently had had their full of oratory. But it had only begun.

Millard spoke first, beginning in a quiet, almost inaudible tone that swelled rapidly as he swung into his discourse. He painted Judd Gray as "a poor, weak fool, who had followed a snake-like woman to destruction."

One of the most astounding of his deductions was that Judd Gray had "fanned" when he swung the wash-weight over the art editor's head.

"Judd Gray never hit that man," shouted the attorney, "he buried the wash-weight in the pillow. The poor boy had his glasses off and it was dark and he was in a strange room. He missed completely."

Another deduction that aroused the ire of attorneys for Ruth Snyder and taxed the credibility of the jurors was Millard's story of the mysterious contents of the "four once bottle" Judd found under the pillow in the room where he hid before the crime.

Unfolded New Play Story.

"It contained a deadly poison," said Millard, "but Judd Gray drank it nearly a quart of whisky after he had turned its contents down his throat, and the whisky saved his life. That woman planned to give Gray the contents of the bottle after he had done her bloody work and then Judd Gray and Albert Snyder both would be dead and there would be no story to tell the story of her husband's innumerable sins."

Millard closed with a plea for a verdict of manslaughter. He admitted it would be impossible for fair minded jurors to give the coroner salesman a clean bill.

Dana Wallace spoke for Ruth Snyder. He painted her as an easy victim of the man whose job it was to deceive women. She was pictured as a man with a heart as black as the coal he had handled in his hands to burn his bloody clothes and a mind as dirty as a Bronx subway car window.

Asks Acquittal for Ruth.

He denied everything against his blonde client and insisted he was not reading for mercy nor pity for his client, but only that the jury would cut the false from the true.

Newcombe began his address for the state by relating the fires meeting and recounted the evidence of the 29 nights in a hotel room filled with drinking and plotting against the life of Ruth Snyder's husband.

"They wanted him out of the way, and they wanted his insurance money, too," said Newcombe. "It does not make any difference that each defendant says the other planned the murder of Albert Gray. They both planned it. They both are equally guilty."

Confessions Freely Given.

The prosecutor then brought out that the confessions had been freely given by both defendants and that there was nothing to show that force or threats had been used to make them tell their stories.

Newcombe closed with a denunciation of Gray and Ruth Snyder in which he depicted them as a cheating, scheming pair of lust-driven lovers, money mad and willing to do any crime to remove their husband whom they both hated.

Finally he asked the jury to return a verdict of first degree murder against both Ruth Snyder and her paramour, Judd Gray.

Justice Scudder's charge consumed more than an hour. He was painstakingly fair to both defendants and the state.

He called attention of the jury to the fact that they had promised not to compromise if they found a first degree verdict for both defendants was justified. He warned them they must consider each defendant's case separately and that separate verdicts must be returned the same as if the man and woman had been actually tried separately.

Explains Drunkenness Defense.

Justice Scudder picked out the points in the general report of the murder that were at variance and carefully went over each of them with the jurors. He explained that drunkenness was no excuse for crime except when it was established beyond question of a reasonable doubt that the person committing the crime was so drunk that his mind was not capable of functioning sufficiently for him to comprehend what he was doing.

Then the jury retired, and in less than an hour had decided Judd and Ruth to the electric chair.

HUNDREDS SAVED AS OLD 4 FLOOR STORE CRASHES

Only One Is ...
Walls ...
in Dam;
Walls ...

BY GENEVIEVE FO MASS HERRICK.

Because the four story building at 1831 West Chicago avenue teetered for 240 seconds yesterday before it shrugged itself into a mighty tremor and tumbled down at noon in a dust pile, hundreds of lives were saved and the crash becomes a miracle among disasters, with no fatality and only one really serious injury.

The feeble warning of a few cracked pane of glass and a shiver in the side of the wall near a steam shovel doing its work of excavation attracted the attention of Louis Goldblatt, owner-manager of Louis' department store, as he came back from lunch a few minutes after 12 o'clock.

He sped up the signal. He walked up and down the aisles commanding everybody to get out at once. He ran to the fourth floor, repeated his signal, and down to the third, the second.

Collapsing of Floors.

The building, which was built back in 1892, unable longer to withstand the pressure against the dent in its right side made by the steam shovel excavation some 20 feet down, to the immediate east, toppled forward and smashed flat, fourth floor on first, into a solid mass of crushed stone, and twisted and new shoes, a dusty swirl of iron and wood and oil cloth and artificial flowers.

Once again the miraculous entered in.

For the excavation which caused the collapse and thereby endangered the lives of the 40 or 50 in the store, was the same factor which saved lives, hundreds of lives, in the same time. To the east of Louis' department store, separated by a 65 foot lot, on the west 25 foot part of which the excavation had been made, stands the Goldblatt department store, owned by Morris and Nathan Goldblatt, brothers of Louis.

1,500 Others Escape.

This is a five story, very modern brick building, as contrasted with the demolished building which was an older among the landmarks in the northwest side business neighborhood. It employs not 21, but 700 men and women. An estimated 1,500 customers were shopping there at the time.

But the smaller structure, in its crush to the southeast, spilled itself into the excavation, and over on to the level strip of land. So short and compact was the fall that not even one brick dented the wall of the Goldblatt store.

Mothers and fathers, sweethearts, and friends of the employees gathered. One of the chief men, Mr. Swift, 321 Marshallfield avenue, came searching his sweetheart, Miss Jeanette Posanski, 925 North Robey street. He plunged desperately into the crumpled ruins, but police rescued him and took him up to the 5th floor of the Goldblatt store. Here Louis Goldblatt was calling the roll of the employees. Jean-

Find Other Three.

In a moment came word that one of the three, Mrs. Mae Ginnis, 29, of 5817 North Mason avenue, had been carried out of the ruins by firemen. Mrs. Ginnis, in a washroom on the third floor, had crashed down with the building, crawled along to a light, and was pulled out. She is at the North Avenue hospital, suffering from a cracked chest, fractured ankle, and leg. The other two were found in their homes.

Reports that the excavation, which was under the direction of the W. J. Newman company, had scooped down an additional 18 inches could not be verified. Nor could the report that the building had previously been condemned.

City Building Commissioner Christian Fasching, Assistant State Attorney Joseph Nicolai, Chief Hughes, Deputy Chief Alcock, and others questioned the Goldblatt brothers. ### KILLS SELF BY LYING DOWN IN FRONT OF TRUCK

A man identified by cards in his pocket as A. Andreano, a painter and decorator, 311 Marshallfield avenue, committed suicide last night by laying his head on a street car rail in Robey street near Jackson boulevard and permitting a truck to pass over it. The man ran from the curb, and lay down directly in front of the automobile of Paris Wilson, 2128 Washburn avenue.

Wilson, however, was able to avert his car and avoid the prostrate man. A truck, driven by Arthur Larson, 1044 North Waller avenue, was following Wilson and crushed Andreano. This and two other deaths during the day raised Cook county's 1927 motor toll to 289.

Virgil Torri, 25 years old, 111 North avenue, Highwood, was killed last night when his motor truck was struck by a North Shore Line electric train on the County Line road crossing in Highland Park.

John W. Morris, 22, 415

West North avenue, died from injuries received when struck by an automobile Sunday.

Neragu Berry, 23 years old, 142 North 37th street, Melrose Park, received a fractured skull as his car was overturned when he attempted to avoid a collision at North and Highland avenues, Oak Park. His wife and two children escaped with slight cuts and bruises.

HOMES READY TO MOVE INTO. TERMS: $45 a month, $4,750 including interest.

This is the way to make money. You can live on this land now and pay for it with your rent money; or you can cultivate it and make money by raising fruits, poultry and vegetables. Every acre contains eight city lots and every 1/4 acre homesite is equal to two city lots. The demand for this kind of property will enable you to cut your lots up into city lots later on. Every lot should sell for as much money as you now pay for the whole eight lots included in the acre. By building on only one-half of your large one-quarter acre homesite and holding the other half for a few years, you should be able to make a tremendous profit on your purchase by the sale of the other half. In the last few years, hundreds of our purchasers have thus made big money by the increasing values of their land which was bought with a few dollars down, balance like rent.

PROOF OF THE PROFITS IN McINTOSH ACRES

The other day one of our customers who paid $2,450 for five acres of land a few years ago refused $25,000 for a 100-foot corner off this property. Another buyer of four acres a few years ago, for $455 an acre refused $1,400 an acre. Another customer purchased some property from us in 1922 for $1,600; lately he refused a cash offer of $17,000. Less than 2 1/2 years ago, one of our customers bought 10 acres for $5,800 and sold them last year for $19,800 cash, after he had paid only $1,200 on his contract. Hundreds of buyers on the Northwest Side have realized as much per lot for their property as they originally paid per acre.

Property in Suburban Chicago sold a few years ago for $20 a front foot is now bringing a cash price of from $150 to $250 a front foot.

You can do as well. You can make money in the same way that these people made theirs and you only need a few dollars to start with.

TORNADOES CUT SWATH OF DEATH IN THREE STATES

150 Die, Towns Ruined, Millions in Damage.

BULLETIN.

St. Louis, Mo., May 9.—(AP)—Gov. Sam A. Baker tonight called out two companies of Missouri National Guardsmen for patrol duty in tornado stricken Poplar Bluff and announced he himself would go to Poplar Bluff to look over the situation.

Poplar Bluff, Mo., May 9.—(AP)—Fifty-four persons were killed and 100 injured in a tornado which swept through the business section here late today.

Forty-two bodies have been taken to morgues and twelve more were removed to homes.

The tornado destroyed virtually every building in an area four blocks wide and four or five blocks long. Not a single store building was left undamaged.

Property damage was estimated well over $1,000,000.

The city was in darkness tonight and the cries of injured men, women, and children could be heard from all parts of the devastated section.

Buildings Crumpled Up.

The tornado hit like a bomb. Buildings of large size were crumpled as though they were paper and trees were pulled from the earth and buried into the air.

Pitiful scenes were enacted on the streets. The injured and homeless, with no place to turn, were climbing through the wreckage while a downpour of rain gave no sign of a letup.

Many children were injured and several were reported killed when a school house was destroyed.

Virtually every building in the business section was leveled, but apparently most of the residence section was spared.

Fire Breaks Out.

Fire started in the Harris hotel soon after the tornado struck and for a time threatened the entire business section.

The Dueker hotel, a four story brick structure, was laid in ruins. Almost entirely, two theaters with large matinee crowds were not struck by the tornado.

Members of the American Legion began patrolling the streets which were almost impenetrable because of the tangled wreckage.

9 Killed, 15 Injured.

Jefferson City, Mo., May 9.—(AP)—Nine persons were killed and about 15 injured by tornadoes which struck in central Missouri, swooping down on the towns of Olean, New Bloomfield, and near Aurora, New Bloomfield.

One twisted struck Eldon and Olean while the other tornado tore through Callaway county, which lies across the Missouri river from here.

Three persons were killed in or near Eldon and six were injured, several seriously. The dead were believed to be Mr. and Mrs. Richard Garrett and son Earl, former Chicagoans.

Six lives were snuffed out in Calhoun county and nine persons were reported injured, several critically.

Preliminary reports indicated that the strong tornado may have been the worst storm disaster in the history of south Arkansas.

Sixteen More Killed.

Memphis, Tenn., May 9.—(AP)—Sixteen persons were known to be dead and an undetermined number injured as a result of a tornado which cut a path through more than a dozen towns and communities in northeastern Arkansas.

Proving to be the heaviest hit counties were Union, south central Arkansas, and Lawrence, in the northeastern part of the state.

Eighteen Known Dead.

Union county reported eighteen known dead in the storms at Norphlet and Strong.

Lawrence county reported twenty-eight dead in a series of tornadoes of the state reported a storm which killed one and injured others.

Toledo and Rison in the central part of the state reported a storm which killed three dead and many injured in a series of storms.

Two Towns Wrecked.

El Dorado, Ark., May 9.—(AP)—Eighteen known dead, 50 seriously injured and ten missing, many of whom it is believed perished, was the toll tonight of two tornadoes that late today swept Strong, a little farming town, and Norphlet, in the Arkansas oil belt, both within twenty miles of this city.

Messengers from Strong said that town had been wiped out with a loss of nearly all its population.

The Missouri Pacific railroad made up an emergency train and sent it south to Strong. Fifty doctors and nurses were sent.

Preliminary reports indicated that the strong tornado may have been the worst storm disaster in the history of south Arkansas.

Richey home was demolished. Five persons in this family were injured. An unconfirmed report from Walnut Ridge said five persons were killed there.

shown. In every instance the storm hit before dawn and caught most of the victims in bed.

Town is Destroyed.

Only one building in the business district escaped, and only a few dwellings remained standing. This storm seemed to raise until after passing Greenville, when it dropped again at Kellogg, north of Greenville, where two were killed. Then it jumped to Wolfe City, where four were killed.

The storm, which hit a residence section of Garland, seemed to last an hour later than that which destroyed Greenville, and according to reports jumped upward at Garland and was next experienced in Lamar county, where Tigerwood, a small community, virtually was wiped out. Nine persons were reported injured in Lamar county.

Two Freeze to Death.

Laramie, Wyo., May 9.—(AP)—Two sheep herders were frozen to death near here in the week-end blizzard and snow was under way today for seven University of Wyoming students who left here yesterday afternoon by automobile for Cheyenne, thirty-five miles distant, and have not been heard from.

Prices realized on Swift & Company's sales of carcass beef in Chicago, for week ending Saturday, May 6, were as follows: Cows, ranging in weight from 1,100 cents to 15,000 cents; steers, common to medium, 14,000 cents to 19,500 cents; steers, good to choice, 27,000 cents to 30,000 cents; total sales averaged 15,63 cents per lb. Adv.

32 DEAD IN TEXAS

Dallas, Tex., May 9.—(AP)—Twenty-three deaths were thirty-two tonight from tornadoes which twisted early today over a narrow path between 75 and 100 miles in length in Dallas, Collin, Hunt, and Lamar counties of Texas.

One hundred or more were injured. Between 200 and 300 were homeless.

The death list stood at sixteen at Nevada, ten at Garland, four at Wolfe City, and two at Kellogg. Some of the injured were expected to die.

Relief work was well organized tonight, but faced the greatest task at Nevada. Homeless persons of that town of between 600 and 800 inhabitants were given quarters in homes which were not damaged or went to nearly total ruins for the night.

Blushing with a roar which resembled continuous distant thunder high above most of the territory over which they passed, the tornadoes swooped down only here and there, finally dissipating as they crossed the Texas boundary so far as reports tonight

Bing!

The New Binder

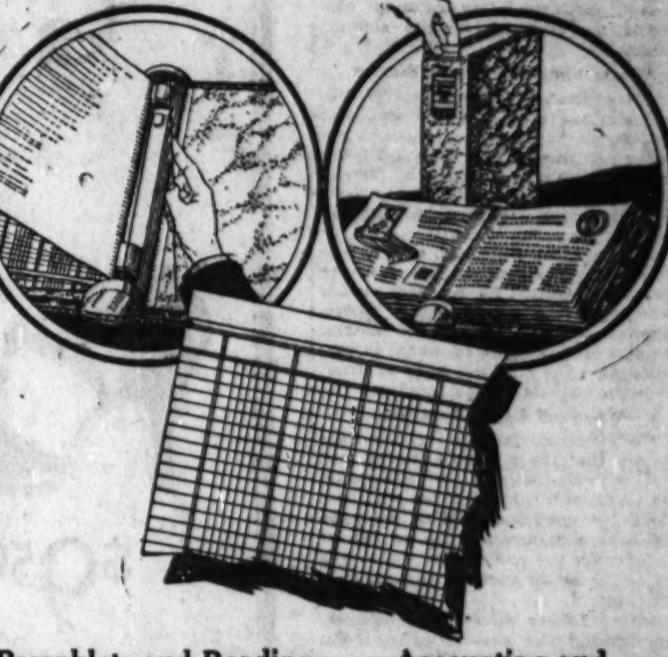

Introduced by Horder

NO RINGS NO POSTS NO HOLES NO COMPLICATED LOCKS

The Bing! Binder holds anything that is folded. First designed as a binder for pamphlets, house organs, magazines, etc., its use has been made available to the accounting and office field.

A single wire holds each individual pamphlet, magazine, or folded sheet in place. There are many of these wires in each binder so that many issues of a publication may be placed in one cover.

No holes need be punched — no binding margin necessary — no reading matter obscured — flat opening. This is a distinct advantage in the Bing! Binder.

Pamphlets and Reading Matter

Publishers of magazines, house organs, and periodic selling literature; concerns with large sales staffs; advertising agencies, sales promotion and advertising managers will enjoy a new experience when using the Bing! Binder.

Accounting and Columnar Forms

Accountants and Office Managers will like the Bing! Binder as coupled with radical new series of Columnar and Accounting Forms which we have just produced.

A "closed" Bing! Binder looks like a bound book, but when open there appear facilities for binding in the form of ruling to the full capacity of the binder or a series of rulings.

There are 26 radically changed Bing! Columnar and Accounting Forms in stock. All are made folded just as if they were to be used into a bound book. No waste of space for a binding margin is necessary. All columns are individualized, with single box headers. Horizontal lines are available.

Fine grade paper, buff color.

Send us a sample of the printed matter that you wish to bind and we will gladly quote you the price on a Bing! Binder to fit.

COUNCIL GROUP DEBATES WATER METER REPEAL

Only Woodhull Defends Present Law.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.
Repeal of the water meter ordinance was discussed for more than two hours yesterday by the council finance committee. Only one alderman, Ross A. Woodhull, defended metering, while nearly every other alderman who expressed views vigorously attacked it.

The two principal arguments against it were that means other than meters can be found to stop waste and the public is opposed to meters.

Ald. Cronson, referring to the recent election of Mayor Thompson, first brought forth the latter argument, supported, he declared, by the election results.

Wants Plumbing Repair Bureau.
"Mend the mains, repair the plumbing, and the waste will be stopped," Ald. Bowler declared. "Create a bureau to do this all over the city. Make the assessment rate 10 per cent instead of 25 per cent and we would have $500,000 a year for a bureau of plumbing repairs."

Attorney Harry Boismat, said to represent Mayor Thompson, sat in at the committee table. He recently visited Washington to get the way department to waive its assessment for meters. He said if the waste of water is curtailed here the city will have no trouble with officials at Washington.

Woodhull Urges Metering.

"We are advised by the city's engineers that there is no effective way to stop waste except by metering," Ald. Woodhull said. "If we eliminate waste the engineers told us we have sufficient pumping and water tunnel capacity for the next thirty years. We are acting as directors of this $50,000,000 utility."

Robert Isham Randolph, engineer, representing the association of commerce, said he believed that meters are beneficial. He said the order of the government gave the alderman an alibi to vote for meters.

Another Engineer Boosts Meters.
Paul Hansen of the Western Society of Engineers said the city accepted the government order and is now honor bound to obey it. He emphasized the curbing of waste rather than meters.

Action was deferred by the committee until Mr. Boismat makes his report on which he has been working for two months. He expects it to be completed in two or three weeks.

SHORTEST NAME IN LEGISLATURE.
Speaking of unusual names, the shortest in the legislature is that of Rep. John F. Morrison of Alton. Next by the width of a letter comes Senator Ogle G. Morrison of Northfield.

MAYOR FOR MORE BONDING POWER, UNIFIED TRANSIT

Wants Busses Part of System.

Issue building bonds," he continued. "All we have to do is to issue them."

Take the $18,500,000 and use it. I propose that it be divided, half to the board and half to the city. This would give the city $8,250,000 and wipe out our deficit."

Mayor Thompson said further he introduced the issuance of 10 year bonds in preference to 20 year bonds.

Calls for Quick Action.

"We've got to act quickly," he added. "After May 17 no bills can be introduced at Springfield without unanimous consent and that is hard to get. We have the bills about ready and they will go to the council at the last of this week."

As for the Calumet harbor, Mr.

Thompson said he originated the harbor plan, secured legislation for it and is ready to go ahead and start digging as soon as practicable. If the Nickel Plate plan stands in the road, he said, "it can be repealed."

Chicago's police situation was never better in the city's history, the mayor said.

Although he admitted he has no specific program in mind, Mr.

Thompson said he is certain the basis for a permanent solution will be laid at the conference here in June. He said he is cooperating with Mayor O'Keefe of New Orleans in making the conference the biggest of its kind ever held.

Count the Cost and CUT the Cost With Salem Cord Tires

Guaranteed on Adjustment Basis of 10,000 Miles—Adjustment Made Here
—Massive, Oversize Construction

These big, hefty, smart-looking Salem's, at the new low prices—the lowest we have ever been able to quote—offer, in our judgment, one of the best tire values available anywhere.

In all our experience no other Tire has equaled the record made by Salem's: less than 1/2 of 1% of all the thousands sold coming back for adjustment.

Practically all standard makes of tires today are 4- and 6-ply in the larger sizes while Salem's are 6- and 8-ply. This difference in construction should not be lost sight of in making comparisons.

BRITAIN TO TEST NEW BULLDOG OF SEA, THE NELSON

Greatest Warship Mounts
Nine 16-Inch Guns.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Copyright, 1927, by The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, May 9.—Some day next week the 35,000 ton British admiralty cage man, called Nelson, will kick off the drydock skids at Portsmouth and stride down the bay to try out his nine and sixteen inch maritime clubs.

By means of these clubs, coupled with the steel bomb proof skin which serves him as a deck, he hopes to give finality to any naval argument with United States or Japanese fighters of his own type.

After practice with his guns, which discharge pellets weighing 2.34 pounds, the Nelson will shoot up and down the channel, trying out the engines. If it makes the grade, the British government then will take him over from Messrs. Armstrong, Whitworth & Co., who built it.

Rodney Ready in August.
The Nelson's brother ship, Rodney, now at Plymouth, will go through the same initiation in August.

The inaugurations of these ships are important events here because they are the last battleships the British can lay down under the Washington treaty before 1931.

The Nelson arrived at Portsmouth from Walker naval yard at Newcastle on Tyne a couple of weeks ago. Crowds of naval thinking Britons gave him a big send off as his 702 foot length manipulated the difficult Whitehead cables. He lay almost at right angles and then without a hitch went gracefully and athletically down the sea. The Nelson lay off the Tyne adjusting its compasses and testing its anchors and then steamed to Portsmouth, where he was hoisted to the drydock again to be painted with an invisible sea grey.

Like a Sea Castle.
Despite naval etiquette, the Nelson seems more like a "he" than a "she" and has none of the gracefulness of the ships of the Queen Elizabeth type. It looks more like a sea colossus all rock and stability. It is all angular and no excess and has a single stack and single conning tower and reminds one of the impression the Monitor must have made on the confederate Merrimac.

The Nelson, with all big guns forward, is like a bulldog—all shoulders and thorax, with the stern engines sloping down to the waist, with which nevertheless carry and kick. The six inch steel guns are sheathed and closed in steel like the wings on the Greek Mercury's heels.

Lies Close to Nelson's Victory.
The doughty Nelson lies within view of the old three masted, full rigged flagship Victory, on whose wooden decks the grand old man of the British navy fell at Trafalgar in 1805. The admiralty keeps Nelson's flagship at Portsmouth as a souvenir.

The Victory's wooden sides contrast strangely with the smooth steel sides of the newest gladiators. The Nelson's low decks and blunt bulging appearance and bottom bear little resemblance to the high wooden sides of the Victory, through whose apertures cumbersome cannon a hundred years ago ended Napoleon's naval dreams.

The Nelson's exact specifications are a British naval secret. The ship is 702 feet long, 106 feet wide, and cost $7,000,000 ($35,000,000), and carries a crew of 1,300.

HAS SELF SLAIN FOR INSURANCE TO PAY DEBTS

St. Louis, Mo., May 9.—(AP)—Detectives today were entertaining a theory that Clifford M. Hicks, 28, attorney, mysteriously shot to death the night of April 30, arranged to have himself murdered as the easiest way out of his financial difficulties.

Hicks' total indebtedness, according to his own statement, was $207,000, and creditors were pressuring him for settlement. His life insurance, much of which was pledged against his debts, totaled $385,000.

Judge Purdy also sentenced Neil McKay Heath of Georgia, Huxar's accomplice, to eighteen months' imprisonment and a $1,000 fine. Huxar's attorneys announced that he would appeal to the California courts and the United States Supreme court.

STORM LASHES FLOOD WATER TO ADDED MENACE

Turns Workers' Attention to Main Banks.

New Orleans, La., May 9.—(AP)—The fifty mile levee front along the Mississippi between Baton Rouge and Bayou Des Glaises was being battered by choppy waves to-night as a 25 mile wind lashed the flood waters into sudden fury, momentarily shifting the point of immediate concern from the Bayou Des Glaises section to the embankments along the main stream.

A prediction of continued stormy weather to accompany the crest of the flood down the valley added to the threat of the waters as they continued to漫 about the mouth of Old river before descending into the lower valley.

Ramparts along Bayou Des Glaises and the south bank of the Red river were not seriously affected by the sweeping winds today. Scores of men worked in that neighborhood, however, topping the embankments in the face of the steady rise toward the predicted record breaking crest.

Retiring in Northeast.

Roofs of houses, fences, and trees in the Mississippi indicated that the waters were beginning to return to the river after their wild rampage over northeastern Louisiana and the lands.

Refugees have continued to stream into concentration camps. Most of them are women and children, the men remaining to aid in the high water fight or to care for live stock.

Relief Fund Reaches $9,341,405.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(Special)—Contributions to the Red Cross flood relief fund reached $9,341,405 this afternoon. Of the total, the eastern area supplied $6,035,000, the midwestern states $2,383,000, and the Pacific coast $791,000. One large contribution during the day was $10,000 from the Red Cross of Cuba. Messages of sympathy were received from Japan and Santo Domingo.

Arkansas Again Rising.

Little Rock, Ark., May 9.—(AP)—The Arkansas river here may be the next to rise four or five feet within the next few days. The water at Fort Smith and above, the weather bureau said here today. The stage would be 17.4 feet. Flood stage is 23 feet.

Immunize Half Million.

Memphis, Tenn., May 9.—(AP)—More than 500,000 persons will receive immunization from typhoid and smallpox in the flood area. Dr. William R. Redden estimated today.

Four Children Die in Fire in Missouri Farm Home

Poplar Bluff, Mo., May 9.—(AP)—Four children of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wiley, farmers, were burned to death in a fire that destroyed their home, fifteen miles south of here, early to-day.

Important subjects—the Kessinger Board of Trade bill; the gasoline tax and the state income tax, any or all of which may produce a small sized riot.

Gov. Len Small's 3 cent gasoline tax bill which was railroaded out of committee in face of a strong opposition last week, was set for hearing before the Senate committee of the whole on Wednesday afternoon. Outsiders may be given a chance to be heard, but whether they appear or not, the discussion will be warm, partly because the opponents of the tax were much encouraged by the close roll call on Senator T. J. Courtney's motion last Thursday to send the bill back to committee.

The income tax is at the second reading or amending stage. The opposition is expected to present several amendments whenever it is called up for advancement, one of the most important of which is a provision that the law, if passed by both houses and signed by Gov. Small, shall be submitted to a state-wide referendum before it takes effect.

Mayor Thompson of Chicago is looking for to press the Curran bill to authorize a $20,000,000 bond issue for a state-wide system of fish and game preserves, a project which has been actively supported by Thompson's Plan Park club. While the mayor is here, he will be watching for an expression concerning the Chicago administration's policy on traction legislation.

Report Japan Will End
Moratorium to Save Banks

LONDON, May 9.—(AP)—The house, with representations as its chief subject, probably will have its share of debate. It also will receive William Hale Thompson for an official visit.

The senate is confronted with three important subjects—the Kessinger Board of Trade bill; the gasoline tax and the state income tax, any or all of which may produce a small sized riot.

LONDON, May 9.—(AP)—The house, with representations as its chief subject, probably will have its share of debate. It also will receive William Hale Thompson for an official visit.

The senate is confronted with three important subjects—the Kessinger Board of Trade bill; the gasoline tax and the state income tax, any or all of which may produce a small sized riot.

Gov. Len Small's 3 cent gasoline tax bill which was railroaded out of committee in face of a strong opposition last week, was set for hearing before the Senate committee of the whole on Wednesday afternoon. Outsiders may be given a chance to be heard, but whether they appear or not, the discussion will be warm, partly because the opponents of the tax were much encouraged by the close roll call on Senator T. J. Courtney's motion last Thursday to send the bill back to committee.

The income tax is at the second reading or amending stage. The opposition is expected to present several amendments whenever it is called up for advancement, one of the most important of which is a provision that the law, if passed by both houses and signed by Gov. Small, shall be submitted to a state-wide referendum before it takes effect.

Mayor Thompson of Chicago is looking for to press the Curran bill to authorize a $20,000,000 bond issue for a state-wide system of fish and game preserves, a project which has been actively supported by Thompson's Plan Park club. While the mayor is here, he will be watching for an expression concerning the Chicago administration's policy on traction legislation.

HOPE TO RAISE CHICAGO'S FLOOD FUND BY TONIGHT

Within $50,000 of Goal,
Set at $750,000.

Chicago was nearer last night by some $25,000 to the quota of $750,000 which has been set as the city's share of Mississippi flood relief funds. Every effort will be made today by the Association of Commerce teams, which have raised the bulk of Chicago's fund, to "mop up" in the divisions that have not yet reached their quotas, and finish the job with the local funds 100 per cent in hand.

Health Commissioner Herman N. Bundesen, who had been sent to survey the flooded area, wired Mayor Thompson that the "situation is well in hand," but that the insanitary conditions still continue. From the survey Dr. Bundesen declared steps must be taken at once to safeguard the inhabitants from epidemics and sickness that will follow in the wake of the disaster from polluted water and food supplies.

$619,236 Now Turned Over.

Reports from 10 South La Salle street, the Association of Commerce headquarters, last night showed that to date the amounts turned over to the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross have totaled $619,236, of which yesterday's income was $15,041. The funds being raised under the auspices of Mayor Thompson had reached $63,170 last night.

Larged gifts reported during the day were $7,000 additional, turned in by radio station WLS from its listeners.

of the Kiwanis clubs of the Illinois Eastern Iowa district. Chicago Kiwanis clubs, he said, have established two relief stations for the gathering of clothing, bedding, and so forth, at 5041 Broadway and 6110 Cottage Grove avenue, where such articles will be accepted for transportation into the flood area.

Cafes and night clubs of the city are mustering their talent for a joint benefit to be staged the night of May 15, at the Marigold Garden. It will take the form of a cabaret circus, and will realize about $25,000 if predictions of the managers are fulfilled.

Collections among the employees of the Illinois Central railroad system had passed late Saturday to mark of $20,000.

At the end of the day, thirty tons of clothing, shoes and other necessities had been forwarded to the southern states.

Donations received yesterday at The TRIBUNE office amounted to $842.35, which with previous gifts brought the total received to $14,832.15.

Those donating were: St. Paul - Mrs. John C. Wainman: Cass Jean Mack; Bertha Fuchs; A. Wainman: Cass Romadakis; Charles Waddell; Christian Jacob; Anonymous; Mrs. John C. Wainman; Harold Sheen; anonymous; Eusebio and Norma Berra, Harvey, Ill.

SEE AMERICA FIRST.

Thomas Lamont of Morgan & Co. has given a warning to American investors which we hope will be taken seriously not merely by investors but by bankers and financial agencies who are responsible for the distribution of foreign offerings to American investors. Mr. Lamont told the American section of the International Chamber of Commerce the other night that "from the point of view of the American investor, it is obviously necessary to scan the situation with increasing circumspection and avoid rash or excessive lending." He explained that his reference was to the competition in various European money markets of American bankers and financial houses for the flotation of loans in this country and he remarked truly that "that sort of competition tends to insure security and unsound practice."

We could wish men of Mr. Lamont's character and prestige would undertake to foster deliberately and persistently a greater sense of responsibility in this tremendously important field. There are cases in which institutions of considerable wealth and repute have shown a disposition to let the principle of caveat emptor overrule their responsibility to the investors who undoubtedly in buying a foreign bond relied chiefly upon the competence and integrity of these institutions. We do not say that Mr. Lamont or any group of leading financiers can impose a high standard of ethics upon every private financial agency, yet they can do a good deal in that direction, especially with the aid of the press and the government.

But we have a higher and more difficult service to suggest to the financial leadership of America at this time—if there can be said to be any such leadership in a practical sense. Is it fanciful and utopian to appeal for an effort, sincere, persistent and public spirited, to direct the vast stream of American investment to constructive enterprises, private and public, in this country?

At the close of 1926 American private investments abroad had almost reached thirteen billion dollars. We are lending annually abroad about a billion dollars and the tendency seems to be upwards rather than down. We are far from asserting that this is a movement to be stopped, even if it could be. Even the United States cannot and ought not to live for itself alone. Our selfish interest, to say nothing of any motive of good will, is clearly enough to assist the reconstruction of Europe and the development of the resources of backward or new countries. We have an unprecedented surplus of capital which inevitably seeks employment and most of it is going where it is sorely needed.

On the other hand, we have in this country our chief responsibility and our greatest opportunities. If some superpatriot, possessing autocratic power and devoted to the solidifying and expansion of the great structure of American material prosperity, were to take charge of our huge fund of capital, he would not put it to work in a thousand ways to the improvement of this country and its instruments of production? American money spent in developing superpower, building roads, straightening and improving railroad rights of way, developing waterways, establishing better industrial plants and better homes—in short, in improving this splendid plant we call America—is certainly money spent to the best advantage for the American people, present and future.

Of course, we are spending for these purposes, yet we might spend more if there could be formulated an effective national policy to which all our governments, federal and state, and our great financial and industrial directors, would deliberately shape their action and their influence. We do not underestimate the practical difficulties in the way. The private investor is and ought to be a free agent. The need of other countries for capital induces them to offer high returns. There is no doubt that many of these foreign loans and investments are sound and carry tempting interest rates. Many American offerings cannot compete with them on present showing and there is no way of forcing the American investor to take them in preference to the foreign investment, even if compulsion were justifiable.

Nevertheless there is something to be said and it should be said in favor of investing in such a country as ours. We have conditions of security and internal stability unequalled by any other country. Investment in the productive agencies of the United States and in great public improvements means not only a maximum of security for capital and return but also a contribution to the general prosperity in which the investor shares in many ways. It means provision for himself and his posterity.

On the other hand, no foreign investment can wisely be made without consideration of the elements of political and economic instability which necessarily affect the investor's prospect of rugualar returns and eventual reimbursement. The American investor cannot afford to ignore the fact that Europe is still an armed camp, that governments hardly established are expending inordinate sums on armament in the name of security, that there is going on today, as before the great war, the same complicated and intense interplay of national interests and ambitions, of ancient fears and hostilities that has made the stormy history of Europe in modern times and will make its history in years to come. In their external relations and internal conditions European countries offer no such field of secure investment as America and this general truth might well be used, without injustice to them or to our own investors, in a patriotic effort to put America's vast resources of capital to work in American development. The eloquence of seven or eight per cent and the skill of distributors whose profit is in the commission earned rather than in the merit of the loan itself are not easy to offset with such general considerations, but a good deal can be done by education and patriotic appeal.

DEATH IN CITY STREETS.

More than 300 people have been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county this year. About one-third of the year remains. Ahead are the months when automobiles are most in use and when streets are crowded with children at play. If the present rate of killing continues—and there appears to be no reason to doubt that it will—until general remedies are introduced—a thousand more men, women, and children will be killed in our streets in 1927. Last year the total was well over 900. For every person killed there are fifteen who are injured. Many are crippled for life.

There is a sure method of preventing most of this blood-letting. Experience has shown that traffic regulations of whatever sort make no great impression upon the mortality rate. The cure is separation of grades. Pedestrians must move at one level and automobile traffic at another. Where automobile trunk lines intersect, they must do so at different levels.

Safe streets will cost a great deal of money to build, but not more than Chicago is already paying into the state treasury in license fees and certainly no more than Chicago is expected to pay under the proposed gasoline tax. As matters stand, not a penny paid by Chicago motorists for licenses is spent in Chicago and only a thirtieth of the total is being spent in the county. Hundreds of lives are being sacrificed in Chicago this year because Chicago's road money is being spent in maintaining a political machine in the rural sections of the state instead of in building safe streets.

Chicago is willing to help build hard roads in rural Illinois, but there is a limit beyond which altruism cannot go. Illinois farmers are not dying for lack of hard roads. A thousand Chicagoans will be killed this year for lack of safe streets. The legislature should set to work to revise the present distribution of automobile taxes which is as unjust to Chicago as it is murderous.

A BILLION FOR FLOOD CONTROL.

A federal appropriation of $100,000,000 a year for the next ten years to do away forever with the damaging floods in the Mississippi valley has been proposed by Congressman Hull and has the support of many influential men in and out of congress. A billion dollars is an enormous sum, but it is not too much to spend for the purpose.

There is no question of the ability of the nation to pay the bill; we are sending a billion dollars a year abroad for investment in foreign enterprises and for the support of foreign governments. Some of that money is needed at home, where, it need scarcely be said, the security of the investment is greater.

The floods can be controlled. The question of engineering methods remains to be settled. No time should be lost in creating, under government auspices, a board of engineers to devise a plan which the government can carry out. The board should include, as a matter of course, the army engineers who are familiar with the problem, but it should also include civilians of this and perhaps other countries as well. The nation is willing to pay the bill, but it wants assurance that the money will not be dissipated on half-way measures.

SOCIETY'S SELF-PROTECTION.
(Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.)

The broad right of society to protect itself against the perpetuation of the imbecile and hopelessly unfit is upheld in the Supreme court decision affirming the constitutionality of the Virginia sterilization act. The act has been pronounced valid by the highest tribunal of the state, but was carried to the Supreme court on the ground that the plaintiff had been deprived, contrary to the fourteenth amendment, of due process and protection of law.

There was proof in this case that the plaintiff, a feeble-minded young woman, was the daughter of a feeble-minded mother and the mother of a feeble-minded child. "Three generations of imbeciles are enough," remarks Justice Holmes sententiously in the course of his opinion. He finds that the principle that sustains compulsory vaccination is broad enough to cover a sterilization law.

While few may dispute the legitimacy and essential humanity of the application of the law in such a case, it must be admitted that such procedures are liable to great abuse unless carefully safeguarded. Eugenic enthusiasts are apt to go to extremes and many scientists lean to the hard-boiled type.

It is easy to multiply definitions of morons and "unfit"; plenty of alienists would allow few of their feeble creatures to be entirely sane. It is noteworthy that in this case the court closely analyzed the procedure under the Virginia statute and found that every right, including that of appeal to the courts, was preserved for each person made defendant under the statute. It is a fair inference from the decision that no statute less careful of "due process" and "equal protection" of the laws would be allowed to stand in the high court.

THE BATTLE OVER HOW TO TREAT ANEMIA.

FOR about ten years a mighty battle has waged between the advocates of the different methods of treating anemia. Another way of stating the issue which caused the war is: Does taking an iron tonic do any good?

In the old days the faith of the faith in the iron tonic was unbounded. Go far enough back and we find that the faith of the public in all kinds of medicines—pills, powders, and spoon medicines—was unbounded. Then the houses began to fail. Finally, amid the wreck and ruin, little remained except the faith in iron tonics. That seemed rock-ribbed.

But a something called "therapeutic nihilism" was in the air. They say Oster started it. Of course he did not, but he did crystallize a vague, formless impulse into a very definite, sensible, easily recognizable force. Men began to see that iron tonics were useless. They quoted some scientific bucking. The iron tonic was used to neutralize the poisons in the digestive tract and some was then absorbed to make new blood. Back came the answer: You can't prove it.

The answer was that most of the iron in the iron tonic was used to neutralize the poisons in the digestive tract and some was then absorbed to make new blood. Back came the answer: You can't prove it.

Then came something of a compromise. It was admitted that ordinary iron and ordinary salts of iron are not of value in iron tonics, but that organic salts of iron were absorbed and used. But this was denied. The opponents said there was no proof that organic preparations of iron were helpful in anemia. If anything short of iron in the shape of food was helpful, the inorganic salts of iron should a better show of being helpful than the organic salts. Then the row started again mostly all down the line.

Next came the claim that iron in food was helpful but iron in medicines was not. The row was on again. A lot of investigation was done and it is not yet over.

The following is an effort to make a fair statement of the situation as it now is. The only reason for taking an iron tonic is a deficiency of iron in the system.

A deficiency of iron is responsible for the condition known as anemia. There are several kinds of anemia. If a person fears that he has anemia, he should next learn what kind of anemia, and then what is the cause.

A very simple, inexpensive, easily made blood test will settle that question satisfactorily. A person can need from without being paid off a person can be paid without need.

An ordinary iron tonic will not be of service in pernicious anemia. If the cause of anemia is found, it should be removed.

Now, these several things having been done, is there any likelihood that taking an iron tonic in addition will help? The evidence for just about equals the evidence against. I should say the old standby should not be wrecked on the evidence as it now is.

SUITS TO ENJOIN OUTER DRIVE AND YACHT RULE FILED

Lincoln Park Board Is Named in 2 Actions.

Lincoln park commissioners were sued in the state and in the United States District courts yesterday, one suit seeking to enjoin the outer drive project between Grace street and Devon avenue, and the other to enjoin the commissioners from exercising authority over the Lincoln park yacht basin.

Mrs. Nett W. Robbins, 746 Robbins terrace, and her daughter, Mrs. China L. Logeman, are seeking a writ in the state judiciary which would prevent construction of the boulevard on reclaimed land east of their property at the foot of Robbins.

Charge Property Detriment.

They contend that the improvement plans of 1895, under which their riparian rights were deeded to the commission, have been modified to the detriment of their property.

The federal action, to be heard this morning before Judge James H. Wilkerson, is brought by U. S. H. Mann, owner of the Cort theater and yacht, Swastika, and Eugene F. McDonald Jr., president of the Zenith Radio corporation, an Arctic explorer, and owner of the yacht Zenith. The suit is brought in behalf of yacht owners using Belmont harbor.

Claim War Department Rule.

Contending that the basin, being a navigable body of water, is under the sole jurisdiction of the secretary of war, the petitioners claim that the commissioners be enjoined from further inclosing and filling any part of the navigable waters of Lake Michigan, from restricting the site of boats which may be anchored in the harbor, from prohibiting occupancy of yachts after 11 p. m., and from collecting mooring fees.

OREGON RAISES 20,000 TROOPS TO FIGHT CATHOLICS

Fears Vera Cruz Chief May Join Rebels.

Because of the censorship which cuts much of the truth concerning conditions in Mexico, The Tribune ordered a special correspondent to make a careful investigation and report his findings after his return to the United States. Here is his second article:

BY GEORGE SELDES.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Laredo, Tex., May 9.—Gen. Oregon is raising 20,000 men in the state of Sonora. According to reliable reports he has 18,000 men under his banner. The purpose of raising this army is to defend the Calles-Morones-Oregon regime in Mexico, should Arnulfo Gomez or any other pro-Catholic general succeed in raising an army and joining it to the present Catholic rebellion.

At this moment there are about 40,000 men in revolt. Their leader is the Archbishop Orosco y Jimenes, who is the Uncle Tom of the forces. He has offered a reward of $5,000 gold, dead or alive. The federal troops engaged in the campaign number 15,000.

The main center of rebellion is Los Altos, in the state of Jalisco. Other centers are in the states of Colima and Guanajuato. Rudolph Gallegos, a former federal general, is in command now. In the state of Coahuila no rebellion has yet broken out. Gen. Matias Caraveo, an old Villista officer, is the military commander and is refusing to take orders from the central government, but is waiting for Gen.

2,500,000 CHILDREN IN U.S. FROM 10 TO 16 LABOR, GREEN SAYS

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(Special)—Since the United States Supreme court ruled out the federal child labor law as unconstitutional, the number of children between the ages of ten and sixteen years working for wages in the United States has increased to over 2,500,000, according to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in an address before the American Health Association today.

Mr. Green declared the successful drive of the "reactionary forces" in Congress to repeal the federal minimum wage act, and pledged the Federation of Labor to "vigorously oppose" the same group in its plan to block child welfare legislation and cripple the children's bureau.

"Child labor is a national problem requiring the application of a national solution," asserted Mr. Green. "It should be dealt with through the enactment of uniform legislation, and this can only be done through the exercise of constitutional authority exercised upon the congress of the United States . . . If the nation is to be completely saved from the degrading and destructive effects of child labor, it must adopt the child labor amendment to the constitution. In no other way can we fully and successfully cope with this evil."

Arnulfo Gomez of Vera Cruz to raise the standards of rebellion.

Priests Lead in Michoacan.

Altogether, six of the 28 Mexican states are affected, according to information given THE TRIBUNE by a Catholic officer who has just returned from Jalisco, where he was in the government service.

In Michoacan priests are leading a rebellion.

In Zacatecas there is religious trouble.

According to this officer the rallying cry of the rebels is "On to Mexico City to liberate the Savior." The Indians believe Jesus Christ is being held prisoner by the Calles government and they must liberate Him.

All Depends on 22 Generals.

Recently the rebels captured a small seaport on the west coast. They held it long enough to have a thirty-ton barge reach them from California. They unloaded the arms and ammunition which they told our Tumans representative was sent them from sympathizers in the United States, and when they had concealed everything in the hills, they evacuated the town.

Fierce fighting goes on every day. But the real secret of the present rebellion is the position of the 22 generals who rule the 28 states and who are able to lead their troops into war.

Once the Catholic rebels are able to obtain the support of a big general with 10,000 men, then it will be real warfare. At present it is a rebellion which has frequently participated in warfare.

On the rebel side are: the Catholic church and its thousands of priests who are the Indians love and worship, the old Spanish aristocracy which ruled from the time of Cortes to the time of Madero, the land owners, the tax factory owners and certain oil and other injured interests who were once in "in" and are now "out."

Some Disaffection in Army.

The first group is organized; the second is disorganized.

In the army, according to an officer who has been in the service, there is considerable disaffection for two reasons: the army like every other group or element in of badly armed and badly equipped Indians, frequently led by priests who have no military understanding and who lend only spiritual enthusiasm.

How Forces Line Up.

On the government side are the federal forces, the Oregon army, the C. R. O. M. or Mexican labor unions, organized very much like and having the support of the American Federation of Labor, but differing from the A. F. of L. in that it has a political and a military arm, the former democracy and Agrarian, or agrarian element which has frequently participated in warfare.

On the rebel side are: the Catholic church and its thousands of priests who are the Indians love and worship, the old Spanish aristocracy which ruled from the time of Cortes to the time of Madero, the land owners, the tax factory owners and certain oil and

IGNORANCE, VICE SOIL HALLS OF RUSSIAN CULTURE

Boys and Girls Ushered Into a Life of Despair.

This is another of a series of articles by Mr. Kopman revealing conditions in soviet Russia. Mr. Kopman is a native of Russia, lived there many years, and returned there a few years ago as a commercial traveler. After a year or two he was imprisoned, but later was released.

BY AARON KOPMAN.

(Chicago Tribune Free Service.)
LONDON, May 9.—The Bolshevik Rabfacs, or workers' faculty, regard the temple of communism. It is here that the coming generation of communists is being educated. Here are maturing the brains which will govern Russia, build and run railroads, operate industries, develop sciences, conduct trade and build the projected bolshevik Utopia. It is from these schools that students are graduating who will work in Russia's new standard of government, which is almost madam the world." His rays are already penetrating to all parts of the soviet union, central and northwest Russia, Ukraine, Caucasus, Dagastan, Uzbekistan, the Mongolian republic and Siberia. There is even great hope among the communists that these rays will even reach to the United States. Millions of gold rubles are being spent for propaganda abroad to this effect.

These Rabfacs are all conducted along the same lines and in describing one I describe them all. As an educational institution these Rabfacs are unique.

Only Open to Proletariat.

In Leningrad on the Vassilievski Ostrov, an island which was formerly a clean working quarter but is now a slum, there are a number of these Rabfacs. Some are conducted for minorities, Estonians, Letts, Finns and others. To enter a Rabfac the student must be a Comsomol (Young People's) Communist League. Students must also be of proletarian origin, from the peasant or working class. Others are not entitled to education in Russia. As I have before mentioned, it is not necessary for parents to give their consent for their children to enter these schools. So long as the student is willing and his (or her) political views are vouched for by their former teachers they are admitted. Their average age is seventeen.

Farm and village boys and girls are enrolled and become well versed in bolshevik politics, but are ignorant and illiterate in other branches. In the village school of the second category where they select these pupils, the students know all about the socialist revolution, all about "true love and the 'foolish marriage ceremony,'" but when I once asked a class of this kind: "Boys and girls do you know how old a hen is before it begins to lay eggs?", they all looked at me, and no one could answer. As to what is the best fertilizer and why, there is not one in a hundred who can answer that question.

Got $4 a Month.

Getting back to the Rabfacs, the out-of-town pupils are lodged in dormitories, four and five in a dormitory, an iron bed with a new mattress and pillow for each. Sometimes they sleep in one bed, for these schools are always crowded. Each pupil is allowed a government stipend in 1926 it was 8 rubles—44 per month, and I hear that it has been slightly increased recently. From this they pay the school six rubles twenty kopeks per month for their board, 10 kopeks are dues to the Comsomol, and 15 more for the library fund. The pupil generally has left for clothing, candy and movies a little more than $1 a month.

The rations of these children are similar to those I have described in my story about the prisons with the exception they get one lump of sugar per day. They have tea and rye bread for breakfast, a thin soup with a small piece of meat for lunch and bread and tea, sometimes porridge for supper. The small lump of sugar they receive in the morning must also do for their evening tea. Every second or third day they have soup without meat for supper.

Food From Home

As all the pupils who live in the dormitories are boys and girls with healthy appetites, who are parents seldom are able to assist them, they always are hungry. Once in a while a package comes from home with a pound or two of butter, a dozen eggs, a piece of cheese and a loaf of bread. Then they have a tea party and communist principles prevailing the package disappears in a second. Some get as many as two packages a month from home, others once a month, but the majority only get them once a day.

Their clothing more clearly portrays their extreme poverty. Coming to the city from farms and villages, in home made dresses and coats they are ashamed to walk in the streets

"I might give you one instance of what Kelvinator has meant to me. I bought on Wednesday a large turkey for the following Sunday dinner. Because of a change in our plans I did not use it until a week from that Sunday. Then it was cooked and served and the remainder put back into the Kelvinator. I used the last of it just three weeks later. By being able to keep it, I did not have to serve the turkey every day but was able to alternate with other things." (Name on Request.)

dressed as they are and so reconstruction begins. Not being skilled tailors, you can better imagine than I can describe how the reconstructed garment looks.

As free love is always preached to the students, and even encouraged, a boy who receives a package of food and a rouble each week from his parents will propose to a girl who is not so fortunate, to start to live together. The student they receive from the government with the food and the four roubles per month which he receives, enables them to live in comparative luxury. Mary accepts the proposal. Sometimes they find a room alone, more often not.

But good fortune does not last. The boy's parents hear of the union and are against it. The packages and the roubles are discontinued. Mary is left a straw-widow and Wanka is left another girl. Their clothing more clearly portrays their extreme poverty. Coming to the city from farms and villages, in home made dresses and coats they are ashamed to walk in the streets superintendent twice and reprimanded. In nine cases of ten the girl and her position will not go back to the village where her parents would gladly accept her with her baby. She has tasted of the city, likes the movies, and other girls are the same. One of these girls, friend, will advise an abortion. Such operations in Russia are not a crime, they are even performed free of charge in many special hospitals. A month later Mary will be seen in the company of women of the streets.

Such cases can be cited by dozens, but I think these instances will give the American reader an idea of what is proceeding within these soviet schools. The students are the same as the children in the same villages in which I lived for six months, and I know them and their parents well. They left the village while children of sixteen and seventeen years of age. And at twenty their experiences would provide the New York tabloids with sordid articles for months.

TAGGERS RAISE RECORD $125,000, REPORT SHOWS

"Chicago people were never so generous. Every one was wonderful, and we never before had such boxes brought in as came in yesterday. Even with the weather against us, it is practically certain that we have gone far over our previous highest record," was the report made last night by Mrs. A. H. Brumback, president of the Chicago Federation of Aged and Adult Christians, on yesterday's giving day.

Complete returns on the amount collected will not be available until this afternoon or tomorrow, but early indications were that the quota of $125,000 had been reached. This despite the fact that rains during the day compelled the cessation of tagging in Chicago and suburbs. Forty institutions caring for elderly and dependent men and women will benefit.

BEAUTY WROUGHT IN STEEL BY ART METAL WORKERS

YES—it's steel office equipment—but it's from the shop of Art Metal craftsmen.

Why does it differ? Partly because the Art Metal of today is wrought from special open hearth steel—partly because its triple spot welded construction gives double strength—partly because every fitting is perfectly machined—partly because the baked-on enamel finish is more lasting and beautiful.

But there is another difference you will notice when you see an Art Metal product. It has a cleanliness of line—a sturdy look of grace and beauty—an apparent air of painstaking attention to details that is both an aid to beauty and a guarantee of mechanical excellence. These things are the heritage of the modern Art Metal worker from the first craftsmen ever to make steel office equipment.

The proof that these Art Metal standards have been maintained in Art Metal desks, files, safes, and cabinets awaits you at our display rooms.

FILM STAR GOES ON TRIAL FOR ACTOR'S KILLING

Kelly Fought Husband of Actress Over Her.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 9.—(AP)—Paul Kelly, young screen actor, whose roles have had the romantic ones of a juvenile, today faced Judge Charles Burrell in Superior court here charged with murder.

Indicted as the result of a fist fight with Ray Raymond, musical comedy actor, who died in a hospital after the battle over Raymond's wife, Dorothy MacKaye, actress/young Kelly strode into court late today to start another battle, for his life.

Widow Sits Against Wall.

Over against the wall sat Dorothy MacKaye, whose dead husband had upbraided her for her friendship for Kelly and over whom the two men had fought.

The actress, accustomed to the gaze of audiences from across the footlights, obviously was nervous at the steady glances of the courtroom throng.

Clad in black, she hurried to her place, her piercing black, almond shaped eyes darting about, a slight smile now and then parting her lips.

She and Dr. Walker J. Sullivan pleaded not guilty earlier in the day on charges of compounding a felony.
They are charged with attempting to conceal facts about Raymond's death.
June 16 was set for their trial.

Victim's Mother in Court.

Mrs. Lottie Cedarblom slipped through the courtroom door just before the case was called and picked her way to a chair. She is the mother of the dead man, Ray Raymond, come from the east, she declared, to see just what was done.

The state rejected women for the jury, the defense passed them, except in one case, that a widow, from a rural community.

Defense counsel laid stress on prospective jurors' attitude on the right of self defense.

When court adjourned until tomorrow ten women and two men jurors tentatively had been passed.

MRS. WILLEBRANDT UNDER CONSIDERATION FOR FEDERAL JUDGE

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(AP)—
There were indications today that Mrs.
Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, is among those under consideration by President Coolidge for appointment as the federal judge in the northern district of California.

Other names brought forward for the place include Walter Perry Johnson and Franklin E.
Griffin of San Francisco, both members of the state Superior court.
If appointed, Mrs. Willebrandt would be the first woman to be named as a federal judge.

"For four years I have been a chronic sufferer from constipation. I was a saleswoman for skin preparations. I was brought face to face with a serious question when my face became blotched and pimply. I was advised to use a laxative but results were not good. Then I was met by a friend who suggested ALL-BRAN.
I tried it and it cleared my face in 30 days.
I have been using it ever since and my skin is now clear and smooth."

"In less than 30 days my constipated condition was relieved and my face permanently cleared. Although I sell skin salves, etc., I recommend Kellogg's to

GRAIN TRADERS, SOLONS PREPARE ELEVATOR BILL

Board May Oust Those in Co-op Scandal.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

Taking another step in their promotional efforts to clear their names, members of the investigating committee of the Chicago Board of Trade, it was reported yesterday, will this morning ask its board of directors to bring to trial, it was stated, and face punishment by suspension or dismissal from the Board of Trade.

New Bill Prepared.

As this development was reported from the board, announcement was made by the legislative committee, headed by Representative William Curran, which has investigated the recent charges that it had drafted a bill, to be presented in both houses of the legislature this morning.

The bill, the committee believes, as the extension of months of inquiry, will eliminate the elevator and warehousing evils charged.

The committee's attorney, Benjamin F. Goldstein, directed the inquiry, hearing many witnesses against the Armour Grain company dealings with the Grain Marketing corporation, dealings said to have been condemned later by the Chicago Board of Trade. This bill places grain public elevators in Illinois in the status of public utilities and would subject them to joint control by the Board of Trade and the state.

Results of Cooperation.

Board of Trade leaders and bankers, as well as some farm organizations, are reported agreed with the committee on the measures provided in the proposed legislation. They believe it will serve to defeat the Kessinger bill that would impose control by a state board of three upon the Board of Trade.

The Board of Trade directors voted last Saturday that if the Kessinger bill became law they would end trading in grain futures on Sept. 30.

The Board of Trade, Attorney Goldstein said, "brings more than $25,000,000 a year revenue into Illinois. It employs thousands of Chicagoans. It makes the city a center of commerce. It would be disastrous to drive the board of three upon the Board of Trade."

Edward Eagle Brown, banker and lawyer, who is an arbitrator held the Armour Grain company guilty of fraud, and ordered it to pay $3,000 damages to the Grain Marketing corporation. After examining the bill, he wrote to the committee in part as follows:

"I want to congratulate you on having drafted a bill which I believe is really constructive and will result in materially improving conditions, and which does not, in my opinion, endanger the grain trade now centering in Chicago."

Today marks the expiration of the limit set by Arbitrator Brown for the payment by Armour Grain company to the Rosenbaum Grain company of $1,600,000, as the first payment upon the $3,000,000 award. Last night it was announced that the time had been extended. The board and another Rosenbaum company formed the grain marketing corporation.

The chief provision of the new bill is: "No person who operates a class

A public grain warehouse in this state shall store in such warehouse any grain in which he has any direct or indirect interest."

This will prevent, the committee's report states, any grain owner from manipulating the grade of his grain.

In the Armour Grain company case, the committee's report aimed repeatedly at the abuses discovered in that company's conduct—millions of bushels of grain were certified as high grade when sold to the Grain Marketing corporation.

Instead the grain was aged and his burned wheat, the committee learned. The Armour Grain company leased the elevator in which the grain was stored and its officials and employees conspired, it was charged, to falsify inventories and reports on the grain.

Probable Future Act.

If the intentions of the Board of Trade, as announced last week by Morris Townley, its chief counsel, are carried out, the board will organize a corporation under its direct control to take leases on all public grain warehouses in the state.

That such action also is in the hope of the legislative committee is revealed by the committee's report, which states the Board of Trade will be enabled to put through the warehouse corporation plan. Under that all warehouses will be controlled by and pay their profits to the board's corporation, which will distribute the profits to the owners. Attorney Goldstein said that of the 40,000,000 bushels warehouse space available in Chicago, those controlling three-quarters of it have agreed to the Board of Trade plan. Disinterested directors are to run the elevator corporation.

Should this project fail of completion, however, the bill will prevent persons or corporations holding interest in a warehouse from storing their own grain in it. Even then, the immensely stockholders in the warehouse corporation they are barred by the bill from using the warehouse for their own grain.

Carries Punitive Clause.

So that the restrictions will be more than mere rules, the bill provides that any violations of its provisions may be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000 or imprisonment in jail for not more than six months for each offense.

Another evil which has brought severe criticism of the Board of Trade, and which is remedied by the bill, is the opportunity given to unscrupulous persons to mix grain of different grades to close their bins to the public upon a false claim they are filled. When this occurs the market is flooded with grain by owners unable to store it, and consequently the market price is broken down and heavy losses inflicted on certain traders, and, more important, on farmers, whose welfare depends on maintaining a fair price for grain.

There is to be information available as to how much warehouse space is in use and how much vacant at any given time.

Reduces Cutters' Charges.

Arthur W. Cutten, a prominent member of the board of trade, brought before the committee the charges that elevator space was manipulated to affect the market.

To prevent recurrences of such conduct by warehousemen, the bill provides

"Every warehouse corporation operating on a flexible unit plan shall be required to file at the beginning of each week a statement showing what particular bins were operated for public use during the previous week."

The bill also requires that the warehouse operators certify in their weekly reports the contents and grade of grain in each bin, which the committee is satisfied will prevent the mixing of poor grain with good at the cost of the owner.

To cap the protective measures, the bill provides that no rule or regulation which relates to the warehousing of grain in any public grain warehouse may be in force until it is approved by the Illinois Commerce commission, which may hear any objections offered by outside interests.

Cascara is Your Doctor's Choice

When physicians pronounce cascara the PERFECT laxative—why experiment with things that lash the system into action? Cascara, you know, is the bark of a tree. A natural and normal stimulus to the bowels.

The Indians, who used to chew this bark, had no word in their language that meant "constipation".

Perfect regularity is possible today, and to all of us. We have cascara in ideal form; the very delightful-tasting candy cascara gives us pure cascara. It has helped at least a million people to habitual regularity. Millions of others, unfortunately, have stuck to stronger things and acquired only the laxative habit.

CASCARETS

They Work While You Sleep!

Your first cascara will demonstrate how THOROUGH this gentle laxative is, after all. Your next surprise will be the length of time before you need another. Eventually, you'll see that cascaring tends to make the bowels move thereafter of their own accord!

A modern drugstore must stock many laxatives, but for your own good the druggist would rather have you ask for the inexpensive little box of cascara than anything else!

WHY did Chicago furniture stores place over a third (35.6%) of their newspaper advertisements in The Tribune last year—more by a large margin than in any other newspaper? Because their sales experience had proved that when home owners buy something new for the house, most of them look first to see what is advertised in The Tribune. And The Tribune has the largest week-day city and suburban circulation—reaches more buyers—than any other Chicago daily.

INDIANA'S NEW KLAN PLOT QUIZ GETS UNDER WAY

Centers Around Mayor of Indianapolis.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 9.—[Special.]—New angles in the D. C. Stephenson inquiry occupied Prosecutor W. H. Remy and his two court appointed special assistants, former Mayor John W. Holtzman and Emory Johnson, today.

Several witnesses, mostly former city employees, passed into the grand jury room, where Mr. Remy and his assistants examined them. The preparation of a report or affidavit of information, dealing with old and new evidence, was delayed for a day or so.

Every indication points to the centering of the investigation around the mayor of Indianapolis, John L. Duvall, former member of the Stephenson klan.

Promises of Appointments.

The witnesses today dealt, it was said, with appointments promised by Duvall, and was an attempt to corroborate and fix more specifically, evidence supposed to have been given by William Armistead, political boss, during four years as city administrator.

There was no definite announcement as to when the six months' mystery, started by Stephenson, would be cleared up. Mr. Remy merely said the investigation was about completed.

While this kettle was boiling, another phase of the Stephenson case was being heard before Judge James M. Leathers, where a civil suit is being heard against the ex-klan leader in behalf of his first wife, Mrs. Nellie Stephenson Brehn, deserted in Oklahoma years ago.

Makes Final Argument.

Attorney Floyd Matic, appeared here and made a final argument for the appearance in court of Stephenson himself to ascertain where his fortune of a million went to and why he should not pay for his wife's desertion.

Ed Jackson has been subpoenaed to appear in the case May 13 to testify concerning an automobile Stephenson is supposed to have given him.

If Stephenson gets out of jail this time, and has his opportunity to talk in court again, he is likely to open up and talk, according to Attorney Matic.

The Stephenson case, like the man himself, seems irreproachable. It bores up in every direction. In some secret place in Ohio Stephenson's attorneys are now preparing his appeal from the life conviction for the death of Judge Oberholser.

He already has an appeal on a technical point in the main case before the state Supreme court and the attorney general is busy writing a brief in opposition.

The effort all along the state line is to keep Stephenson where he is. All his efforts are to be vigorously opposed. While the mayor and his friends are preparing for a storm when the Hennepin report is made, the governor and other state officials seem to feel that they are free from danger in this quarter.

$10,000 Utility Contribution.

The statements of Attorney Alva H. Rucker that $10,000 had been paid into the Jackson campaign, by the public utility interest has not been backed up, it is said by one in a position to know the facts. Rucker has not produced any evidence. The governor says he never heard of such a contribution.

That leaves the whole scandal in which $60,000 witnesses have been heard and which has been the subject of gossip and rumor for six months, down to the mayor and the little city hall conferees. The mayor is said to have engaged counsel ready to defend him. There is no state wide clamor. There is no wholesale control of offices by secret oligarchs, nothing but the aftermath of a city campaign two years old. That is by the looks and evidence about to be disclosed.

Even if they would let Stephenson talk, little more might develop.

EXHIBIT OPENS TODAY AS BOYS' WEEK FEATURE

Boys' week opened in Chicago last night with the observance centering around the family fireside. It was "boys evening at home," and father, mother, and the younger generation entered into a closer companionship over the library table or about the radio set.

Four o'clock this afternoon has been set for the opening of the third annual Boys' Achievement Exposition at the First Regiment armory, which yesterday swarmed with boys as busy as bees in a hive. The work of 10,000 boys will be shown.

URGE MAYOR TO PRESS WOLFRUM OUSTER CHARGES

In an effort to bring about dismissal of A. V. Wolfrum, principal of the Palmer school and now under indictment for contributing to the delinquency of girl students, parents of the girls yesterday appealed to Mayor Thompson.

Wolfrum was made an inspector pending his trial.
"The man has not yet been found guilty, and in his present position he can do no possible harm to anyone, even if the charges against him are true," Supt. McAndrew said yesterday.

President Walter J. Raymer of the board of education said that Wolfrum had been given the temporary position with the sanction of the board during the administration of Acting President Julius F. Smetanka.

BRIDES

and the gift supreme

June, with its weddings—its culmination of youthful dreams and happiness—is just around the corner. The time for serious consideration of wedding gifts is at hand.

And for the bride, what could be more appropriate or practical, more fitting for the happiest occasion of her life, than Linens?

What could bespeak a better understanding of etiquette's demands? What could be more acceptable? What could give more joy and lasting pleasure?

And those who naturally turn to the best, who buy where quality is assured, where value is obvious, will find the Linens and Laces at Williams' the embodiment of their ideals, the expression of faultless form—the combination of the merits they have a right to expect.

In short, trousseau Linens from this institution are ever characterized by that subtle, elusive something which always denotes perfection.

And dignified distinction is the inevitable result of Monograms marked by our artists and needleworkers

SEA HIDES FATE OF FLYERS; FEAR THEY ARE LOST

Safety Limit Hour Set for Fuel Long Passed.

False reports of its appearance along the Newfoundland and New England coasts, felt that disaster had overtaken the French aces. Weather conditions were all against them soon after the start and they became worse as they went along.

False Reports Frequent.

The entire coast from Cape Race Newfoundland to New York burned with excitement all day as one report after another that the plane had been sighted was received, only to be proved false. Messages that the French plane had been sighted came from Nova Scotia and as far south as Port Washington, L. I. Other aircraft which appeared was hailed as being the White Bird, and banners were raised only to be taken down. Some of these rumors were sent to France by wireless and cable and came back to this country only to be denied.

The watch for the White Bird began with the first streak of dawn over the ocean this morning. Officers of ships nearest to the course the airmen were expected to follow had scanned the horizon for miles for hours looking for a tiny signal light on the plane or a flame from a hot exhaust pipe. And when day came they passed with renewed eagerness through their glasses.

One After Another Fades.

One of the first reports was to the French liner Le President that the plane of the Cape Race at 10:10 o'clock in the morning. That message came from Nova Scotia.

The only French line ship near Cape Race was the Paris, which is due in New York Wednesday morning, but she did not report to her offices either here or in Paris that the White Bird had been seen, so that hope died.

A little later came word that the White Bird had been seen between 8 and 9 o'clock in the morning over St. Pierre Miquelon, off the Nova Scotian coast. That message was hurried over the ocean to Paris, where it was received with elation and announced by the French line. It was said that the plane had been sighted by a French destroyer. When this report was sent back to New York it was soon found to be wrong.

There followed reports that the plane had been sighted in Montreal, Mo., and after this had proved false came a message that seemed to ring true and located Nungesser as passing over Portsmouth, N. H. But this, too, ended in disappointment.

Confused with Coast Guard.

It was learned that a coast guard plane, an amphibian, which has the same lines as the White Bird and is painted orange and white, had been flying down the coast toward Gloucester after a trip north in the hope of picking up Nungesser. The plane is built on land on the water, with wheels drawn up to the hull, and at a distance looked much like a white dye without a landing gear.

There was a grievous shock to those who had waited so long and so anxiously for the impossible had happened.

This was the last of the seemingly creditable reports, but wild rumors flew up and down the coast with startling speed.

Calculations began again on the time Nungesser might stay in the air. As the hands of the clock crept around to 11, and then passed on and on, no one could say with certainty.

They know how precise are the estimates of gasoline consumption on a long flight, how quickly that gasoline disappears in fighting a head wind, without much progress, how helpless a pilot is as he watches for the moment when his motor will sputter and die, and there is nothing left but descend into a gray and angry sea.

A reception committee went down the bay in the city tug Macom to welcome the returning aviators. A dog was chased through the fog, which made it impossible to see more than a few yards. But it was only a futile gesture of preparing a path in which the French aces could land. After waiting for hours the Macom returned to dock and waited a while longer.

On board of it—one of those who tried to pierce the fog curtain with anxious eyes—was Robert Eugene Nungesser of Washington, D. C., brother of the Paris-to-New York pilot.

Remarkable Record for Both.

Capt. Nungesser and Capt. Coli are two of the most adventurous airmen in the world. Their varied and remarkable careers in the war, Nungesser, in particular, has become an almost legendary hero in France.

Nungesser's attitude toward flying is indicated by the symbol which he carried in the war on his plane, and which was painted on the side of his big white Lavassor in which he started across the Atlantic. It was skull and cross bones on a black background.

Capt. Nungesser sustained many wounds during the war and has welded and sewn into the bones of his frame more platinum than is in any other man living.

A platinum plate covers a spot on his skull where a piece of shrapnel torn away the bone. A portion of his right elbow and a three inch portion of the bone in his right arm is platinum. Bullet wounds in the left arm and elbow have caused grotesque deformities; he hardly has room on his chest for the medals he has won. The ribbon which carries his Croix de Guerre is so long that it reaches to his waist, carrying, as it does, twenty-eight gold palms for heroic and high endeavor.

PARIS IS DELUSED

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1927: By the Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, May 10, 3 a. m.—Paris is facing disappointment at the close of what was to have been a pride-set affair.

After the reports that Captains Nungesser and Coli had flown across the Atlantic collapsed pitifully.

"Gentlemen, we never come back."

he said, "we count on you to tell the world that we prepared for our flight with all care possible."

He returned to France immediately and enlisted as an infantry private. He was promoted to corporal in November, to sergeant in January, 1916, and received a lieutenant's commission a month later. He was promoted on the battlefield the rank of captain.

Wounded twice, he refused to be sent to a hospital, rejoicing his return from the front, he became unfit for further infantry duties and requested a transfer to aviation in January, 1916, and obtained his pilot's certificate in May of the same year. After distinguishing himself brilliantly he was given command of the sixty-second fighting squadron.

At the armistice Capt. Coli was commanding a group of fighting squadrons with the Sixth Army and had won the Cross of Officer of the Legion of Honor and nine mentions in dispatches. He had also been wounded five times and had lost one eye.

French army records credit Nungesser officially with the shooting down of forty-seven enemy planes. Unofficially he is believed to have accounted for many more. In full dress uniform he hardly has room on his chest for the medals he has won. The ribbon which carries his Croix de Guerre is so long that it reaches to his waist, carrying, as it does, twenty-eight gold palms for heroic and high endeavor.

COLL ROSE from a Private.

At the outbreak of war Coli was in Argentina attending to family business. He returned to France immediately and enlisted as an infantry private. He was promoted to corporal in November, to sergeant in January,

1916, and received a lieutenant's commission a month later. He was promoted on the battlefield the rank of captain.

Mother Isn't Told.

In old Mme. Nungesser's little apartment the champagne is on tap and all must drink to the health of her brave boy. They do it with sinking hearts—all except the old lady, who does not know the victory has turned to tragedy, that her Charles has not arrived.

Mrs. Consuelo Hartman Nungesser,

the divorced wife of the aviator, and her mother are keeping the vigil at their home in Passy and calling the offices of the Paris edition of Le Tem- ps every half hour, but there is nothing to reassure them.

At 11 o'clock last night dismayed newspaper editors learned they had perpetrated a ghastly joke on the Parisian public and blamed it on an American news agency whose office is charged with giving a series of false reports.

Gen. Decambre, director of the French meteorological service, told

THE TRIBUNE correspondent Capt.

Nungesser's last words to him a moment before he had died off.

"General, we never come back."

he said, "we count on you to tell the world that we prepared for our flight with all care possible."

SCHULZ PLEDGES AID IN CLEARING WAY FOR BRIDGE

Urge Outer Bascule Link
Through Dock Property.

Col. E. H. Schulz, war department engineer for the Chicago district, is eager to help the city, its commissioners and park board, and a speedy solution to the problem of stretching the $8,000,000 outer boulevard link bridge over the Chicago river. He said this last night when he accepted the invitation extended by President Jackson of the Lincoln park board, to a bridge conference at the Palmer house next Monday.

Although the army engineer said that he will be receptive towards any better plans that the park board presents, he may not at present be in a position to accept one proposal, which meets with his approval and that of Chief of Army Engineers Jadwin, for a bascule bridge across the river on a line with the south park's outer drive and McCullough court to the north.

Would Cut Dock Property.

Stretching the bridge on that line would cut through the warehouse property along the Ogden slip, owned by William O. Green, president of the Chicago Canal and Dock company, who has so far opposed such a move with threats of court action.

"No matter where you go with the bridge," Col. Schulz said, "some one will object. The route for the bridge that I suggest is the most direct and will not interfere with navigation. I have a plan. One of the members over the ground and he agrees that that is by far the most satisfactory plan and is in fact the only feasible one."

"I don't know what Maj. Putnam has in mind for a municipal pier harbor, but he will have to secure city council appropriation for the project. His scheme probably will involve plans for a bridge still farther to the east. In the meantime, Mr. Jackson has done well to take the matter in hand in an effort to get the traffic relief which is so urgently needed."

See Rapid Disposition.

Although war department regulations require public hearings after a plan has been agreed upon, by threshing out the objections in the preliminary conferences, they can be disposed of rapidly."

The link, according to Col. Schulz's suggestion, would just skirt the Illinois Central tracks to the east and superintendents of waterways.

LARGE MODEL OF OLD IRONSIDES MAGNET IN LOOP

Aids Drive for Funds to Recondition Ship.

The Chicago Tribune has contributed $1,000 for the refitting of the United States frigate Old Ironsides. Contributions received by The Tribune during the last twenty-four hours follow:

Portage Post of the American Legion ..... $ 5.00

Patriotic Order of American, Boat No. 1 ..... 5.00

Brewster Freemasons ..... 1.00

Charles A. Willis Jr. ..... 1.50

Total ..... $ 14.15

Previously acknowledged ..... $ 3,819.01

Grand total ..... $ 3,833.16

Interest in Old Ironsides and her cruise of the great lakes when reconditioned centered about the model of the historic frigate which was set up yesterday morning on the main floor of Marshall Field's store (Randolph and Washington street section). Throughout the day, crowds of shoppers thronged about the large sized model and piled the two bluejackets from the naval recruiting office who were attending the ship with questions.

The boat was built by Great Lakes naval training station bluejackets in their shipbuilding courses. It is thirty-eight feet long, twenty-seven feet high, and weighs 1,300 pounds. So bulky is it, that the masts had to be disjoined in order to bring it into the building.

Send Buttons to Children.

Meanwhile the business of supplying the public school children with Old Ironsides buttons for them to start selling on Old Ironsides day next Tuesday was going ahead rapidly under the direction of V. M. Peterson, in charge of button distribution for City Comptroller Flismorius.

Last night Mr. Peterson reported that 180 schools had been furnished with the buttons and that 99,000 of the tokens have either been sold or placed in the hands of the children for them to resell. Lindblom high school sent in a repeat order for buttons yesterday, bringing the number which they have subscribed to 4,500. The Swift school took 2,600 buttons and the Parker senior high school sent in a check for $75.

New Contributions Listed.

Among the contributions secured by Charles A. Brown, a member of the Old Ironsides committee, was one for $20 from Corporation Counsel Etelson, another for $10 from Christian Paschen, building contractor, and a third for $35 from Dan Jackson, colored committeeman of the second ward. Mr. Peterson's last accounting showed that the button scheme has netted $1,730 cash to date.

Proposes River Routes to Loop to Relieve Traffic

Waterway highways for commuters were proposed by President Anton J. Cermak at a meeting of the county preserve committee. Under the plan river and lake creeks of the preserve would be opened to permit motor boat travel to and from the loop. The Desplaines, the Calumet, the Little Calumet rivers and Salt Creek would be among the streams dredged. The idea was taken under advisement.

FACES JAIL FOR LIFE FOR NOT PAYING 70¢ TAX

Washington, Pa., May 9.—Charles Ford, 84 years old, of Monongahela, may have to spend the remainder of his life in the Washington county jail if he does not pay a 70 cent tax he owes the city. Ford seems unconcerned and refuses to go into court and obtain his freedom under the insolvency act.

In the meantime officials are debating who will have to pay the cost of his board while he is a prisoner. Costs have piled up in the case until it will now cost Ford approximately $35 to gain his freedom by paying his way out.

Several letters containing contributions have reached Ford. One letter was from Dr. Hannah S. Spangler, M. D., 922 Madison Avenue, Chicago, Ill., who enclosed a dollar for him to pay his taxes and says: "Then you will be able to see the pretty sunshine."

MILL STRIKE ON; OWNERS MEET AGAIN TO TALK

Chicago mill owners will hold two meetings this afternoon at the Hotel LaSalle to discuss the strike or lockout of approximately 2,000 mill workers, according to S. F. D. Medley, secretary of the Illinois Mill Work association.

The walkout of mill workers began yesterday morning when employers tried to enforce a wage reduction from $1.20 an hour to $1.10 an hour. Medley said at one of today's meetings the mill owners will discuss plans for operating their mills on an open shop basis. Mill owners contend they cannot operate under the union scale of $1.20 an hour and compete with the Chicago open shop mill production.

Mill owners will not sign an agreement with the union, asserted Medley, unless it contains provision that will allow shipment into Chicago of all but prison made mill and cash.

Yes, even the basso profundo Professo Pretzino we picture tosses off a perfectly pitched C upon the slightest provocation. You need no ear for music to recognize a good C when you see one. Pretzeleers don't bite by ears, but by teeth. And they do their letters in O-So-Guds. Like this:

Musical or not, it's a pleasure to pretzeleer. Even bass drummers do it when they get a chance at O-So-Guds. These pretzels are baked by Uneeda Bakers. Baked brown. Baked crisp. Baked brittle. And with a fine hearty saltiness that makes you want more and more.

Serve pretzels with soup, salad and dessert—with iced drinks, cheese and hors d'oeuvres. They're good to eat with meals or without.

Especially recommended for children because they are so easy to digest and good for teeth and gums.

Ask your grocer how many people are taking home pretzels made by Uneeda Bakers.

Trying to Reduce?

A few effective suggestions for taking off pounds without being deaf to the stomach's demands

EVERY woman wants to be slender these days. But getting that way is another matter. Some urge starving. Others urge tremendous amounts of exercise. Both are hard and unnecessary.

The two important things are modification of diet (not starvation) and proper elimination through the bowels, kidneys. Liver of fat-inhibiting is the master. Do these two, and you'll be slender without much trouble; with no annoyance.

The best eliminator for this purpose, according to many authorities, is nothing more mysterious than old-time Becham's Pills.

Take them regularly at night. Then a glass of milk before breakfast. Thousands of women now are taking these particular pills because, unlike most laxatives, they work on the bowels, and also tend to promote liver and kidney function. Most contractors aim at only one or two. Complete elimination is necessary in weight reduction.

As to diet, eat whole wheat and bran bread instead of white. Have 4 glasses of milk each day. Get 25g and not cake or ice cream. Eat plenty of green vegetables: cabbage, spinach, lettuce, tomatoes, instead of vegetables that grow in the ground. Eat, too, lots of oranges, apples, grapes, etc. Eat lean meats,避免 from fats, like pork and ham.

You feel well fed all the time. And you are. You feel better, too, in every way. For you are constantly eliminating fat-fostering waste from your body. Do this for one month. You'll be surprised at how many pounds you can lose. Get 25g

U.S. SENDS 800 MORE MARINES TO NICARAGUA

[Chicago Tribune From Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—Orders sending 800 additional marines and nine military airplanes to Nicaragua to aid in the pacification of that country were issued by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur late today. This move was decided on by the administration following the receipt of a message from Rear Admiral Latimer asking that reinforcements be sent at once to aid in policing sections of Nicaragua now not occupied by American forces.

Both naval and state department officials said the marine detachment which will bring the American marine forces in Nicaragua to 3,000, is being sent at the request of the Conservative and Liberal forces of the Nicaraguan peoples. They will be utilized, it was explained, to preserve general order, stop looting, disarm bandits, and police various disturbed areas pending the organization of the national constitutional provided in the peace settlement.

Turning Over Arms.

Secretary Wilbur pointed out that both the Conservatives and Liberals are already turning over their arms to the United States forces. Both the Conservative and Liberal leaders have agreed to this move, he said, but it is feared that bands of rebels will form and begin to harass the country if sufficient police forces are not maintained.

Rear Admiral Latimer has informed us that the American forces at present is inadequate to undertake additional zones to police. "The men of the rebels are certain to decline to obey their leaders and lay down their arms. That is why extra forces are needed."

Secretary Kellogg denied that the dispatch of additional forces to Nicaragua marked a change in United States policy in that republic.

"The sending of additional forces does not indicate any new situation or unforeseen complications," Mr. Kellogg said in a formal statement. "By arrangement with both sides in the conflict which is terminating, American forces have accepted the obligation to preserve general order and police various areas pending the organization of the national constabulary in accordance with the agreed plan."

It is expected that the marine forces will be under way this week.

Secretary Wilbur issued orders today for the U. S. S. Argonne to proceed from the Panama canal to Fort de Prince, Haiti, where 300 marines will be embarked. The airplane tender, "Aroostook," and the repair ship, Medina, now with the fleet in New York, have been ordered to Quantico and Charleston, S. C., where they will embark 500 marines and six planes.

Quantico will furnish 400 marines and Charleston 100. Three replacement planes will go from Quantico.

Get $10 for Each Rifle.

Nicaraguan Liberal soldiers now surrendered their arms to the marines receive $10 for each rifle, the state department was informed by Mr. Stimson today. Each man also received clothing and supplies.

While admitting today that Mr. Stimson during the peace negotiations had told the Nicaraguan Liberals that he was prepared to use force in disarming rebels, the state department today intimated this had been done at the request of Gen. Moncada.

REBEL CHIEF TALKS

BY WILLIAM VAUGHAN.
(Chicago Tribune Correspondent.)

PUERTO CABEZAS, Nicaragua.—May 9.—Dr. Juan B. Sacasa, the Liberal rebel leader, today gave out the following statement:

"Regarding Col. Henry L. Stimson.

son's intimation to my delegates that if we do not accept President Adolfo Diaz as president of Nicaragua, the American troops will forcibly disarm our soldiers, I judge it entirely inadequate as the basis for an honorable settlement of the conflict which has hitherto been between the Liberals and Conservatives, this being the purpose of the invitation to send my representatives to Managua."

Says Diaz Started Revolt.

"If we do not accept Adolfo Diaz it is because he was one of the principals and jointly responsible for the coup d'etat which deprived the constitutional and Central American treatment signed at Washington. I am unable to comprehend why the American government, disregarding continental and even North American public opinion, should seek to impose, even at the cost of lives of American soldiers, the presidency of Adolfo Diaz against the will of the Nicaraguan people. We have fought for our rights and never have offended nor threatened the basic interests of the United States. Lacking news about the latest developments, I cannot be more explicit."

POSTLED: LOSSES $2,500 GERM.

Two men who losted him in a crowd on an elevated train must have stolen from him his $2,500 diamond stickpin, Thomas Bolger, 825 Impelde place, Evanston, an investment broker with offices at 29 South La Salle street, told the central detail police last night.

BOSTONIAN WINS PREAKNESS; SIR HARRY IS SECOND

4 KICK MUD IN EYES OF SCAPA
FLOW, FAVORITE

Victory Nets $55,100
to Whitney.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Baltimore, Md., May 9.—Bostonian and Whiskery, a couple of roommates from Harry Payne Whitney's horse barn, waylaid Scapa Flow, the big horse in the Preakness, as the pace of a dozen went thumping around the muddy track at 1:16 this afternoon, built the favorite right out of the horse race and finished almost one two in the $65,000 two minute wallop of the Maryland racing season.

HARRY PAYNE WHITNEY. Bostonian, a black colt, slid up from nowhere in the last quarter mile to take up the lead and carry it through after Whiskery, who feeds out of the same nosebag as Bostonian, had run Scapa Flow spread-legged for more than half a mile on the dimly visible yonder side of the circle. Sir Harry, the Canadian, who won the second handicap last winter, was second, about half a length behind Bostonian, and Whiskery staggered home third. The time was 2:01 4-5.

Scapa Flow Leads at Turn.
Scapa Flow, a close-hauled favorite in the speculation chambers down under the yellow grandstand, got away to a tangy foot start and used up a lot of energy in the first quarter mile or so in order to stay in the race. Bostonian and Whiskery blazed into a gay fruit salad mass of bright colors at the end of the first turn, the grass green chemise of Frank Cottolenti on Scapa Flow was seen in front for the first time, and from that point the Whitney horses went out to take care of him.

It was something like a race between a lone runner and a relay team, and when Whitney had run down the big, brave animal that was freighting his pocketbook, the trusting public's finances in his saddle bags, Bostonian was ready to take up the lead and protect it to the finish for the dear old light blue and burnt gray brown that identifies the horse buckets and blankets and tubs in the Whitney barns.

When the race was over all citizens who had seen the little buff-colored colt bearing the name of the Whitney stable took them downstairs where a number of lavish gentlemen standing behind wire screened windows bought them back at generous prices. For every $2 invested in these Whitney tickets they refunded $3.50, or $4, according to whether the ticket read "straight" or "show." For every strawberry-colored ticket bearing the name of Sir Harry you were offered $6.20, or $4.90, according to whether it read "place" or "show." They say this sort of thing has been going on for some time.

But Finishes Fifth.

Black Panther was fourth and Scapa Flow wobbled past the white plate glass casino where the judges scan the track with binoculars like officers on the bridge of a cruiser, a spent and despondent fifth.

Gov. Cary Grayson of Maryland, was notorious for his positively immoral belief that Thirst should be a joy and not an affliction, was among the group on the bridge. Admiral Cary Grayson, the navy physician, who doctoring Woodrow Wilson through two administrations was up there too. Mrs. Wilson, the widow of the late President, was in a box on the clubhouse veranda and altogether the crowd was nicely seasoned with members of the diplomatic corps, the nobility of Washington, Maryland, and New York.

The track was downright muddy when the first race went on because there had been a fair sprinkling of rain the night before and the sun came out wan and tardy. By the time the Preakness horses went mincing down the line to the barrier, the footing was wet but it was not a fast track, and the horses were hurling big clouds of mud from their plates as they went by the stands.

Whitney Collects $55,100.

Scapa Flow, the only Maryland horse in the race who beat Scapa Flow last week, started out to run for the money when Crystal Domino, the Chicago horse, finally was brought into line after a five minutes of rearing and fraying at the post and the paddock was sent over to the track. Scapa Flow closed and beat every other starter except her own stablemate, Bubbling Over.

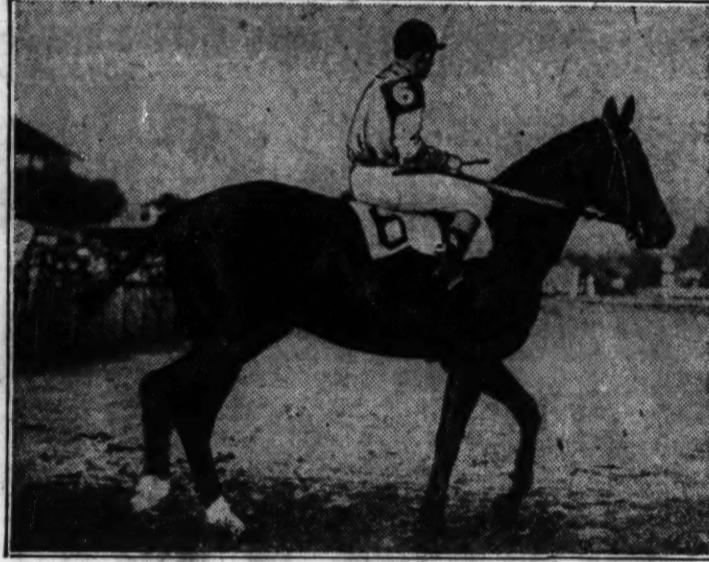

William Daniel's Justice F. looked lean and drawn parading to the post. His long, hard winter campaign is beginning to show on him. It had not been decided here tonight whether to send him to the Derby, although it was reported that his owner wants to give his friends in Chicago who wagered on the colt in the future book a run for their money.

Harry Payne Whitney collected $55,100 for Bostonian's victory and $2,000 more for Whiskery's finish in third. Second money was $5,000.

The Preakness has now run 36 times if you will have history. It was named for a colt that won the Dinner Party stakes 60 years ago.

$50,000 STAKE WINNER

Bostonian thrilled thousands of racegoers and Owner Harry Payne Whitney by winning the $50,000 Preakness stake at Pimlico yesterday. At home on the sloppy track, Bostonian conquered a formidable band of 3-year-olds that included several Kentucky Derby eligibles. Whiskery, a stable mate of Bostonian, ran third.

Preakness Shows Strength of East's Derby Hand

BY FRENCH LANE.

Scapa Flow and possibly Saxon will leave Maryland at noon tomorrow. Black Panther will go on a later train and Al Weston is debating whether to give Jepogan one more chance and send him west for the race at the Downs.

It was also announced here that Whitney will send Valorous to Kentucky from New York tomorrow and that he will be in the Derby running mate of the Whitney horse who will so gallantly distinguished themselves this afternoon. Add Bip Rap, who was en route to Kentucky today, to this list and you have the east's Derby fighting front, except for those easterners already in Kentucky, and Sweeper and Cheops, about which the veteran and crafty Sam Hildreth was keeping mysteriously silent.

Hydromel Trials at Start.
Outside the money was J. C. Milam's Kirkwood, which had some supporters on account of fancy time trials, but the brown Squander progeny was not prominent and ended in sixth position.

As the field of eight came out of the gate, the Hydromel made a gap day, as he was badly outdistanced for the first half mile, being in seventh position. Behind a pace of 47.5, even in the next two furlongs, Hydromel had not appreciably cut down Sixty's lead. As they rounded the stretch, however, for the final dash to the wire, the big chestnut came with an electric burst of speed, ran over his field, and won easily in 1:38.

Hydromel Trials at Start.
Except for the four westerners and one of the mightiest Derby hands it ever had, Bostonian and Whiskery, which finished third and first in the Preakness, were bought back home to the Whitney stables took them downstairs where a number of lavish gentlemen standing behind wire screened windows bought them back at generous prices. For every $2 invested in these Whitney tickets they refunded $3.50, or $4, according to whether the ticket read "straight" or "show."

They say this sort of thing has been going on for some time.

But Finishes Fifth.

Black Panther was fourth and Scapa Flow wobbled past the white plate glass casino where the judges scan the track with binoculars like officers on the bridge of a cruiser, a spent and despondent fifth.

Gov. Cary Grayson of Maryland, was notorious for his positively immoral belief that Thirst should be a joy and not an affliction, was among the group on the bridge. Admiral Cary Grayson, the navy physician, who doctoring Woodrow Wilson through two administrations was up there too. Mrs. Wilson, the widow of the late President, was in a box on the clubhouse veranda and altogether the crowd was nicely seasoned with members of the diplomatic corps, the nobility of Washington, Maryland, and New York.

The track was downright muddy when the first race went on because there had been a fair sprinkling of rain the night before and the sun came out wan and tardy. By the time the Preakness horses went mincing down the line to the barrier, the footing was wet but it was not a fast track, and the horses were hurling big clouds of mud from their plates as they went by the stands.

Scapa Flow Given Poor Ride.

It was badly judge ride by Jockey Eddie Collilletti which cost Scapa Flow's defeat certain and decisive. He was away a length behind when the barrier lifted. Collilletti chose a perilous route to get through the field when he rushed Scapa Flow up with the leaders coming past the stands the first time. From the time he rushed to the front on the first turn until Scapa Flow faltered, a half furlong from the finish, Collilletti never gave the big perspiring son of Man O' War a breathing spell. He drove him to victory June 3. "Faster, faster," he used to shout to the horse's ears, and Scapa Flow responded at every shout until those that had been taking it easy behind him began to close. Collilletti gave up when Scapa Flow's strides shortened. He did not punish him nor did he lift his whip. He had probably been instructed to let Man O' War's son take it easy once the race was lost.

Buddy Bauer Fails to Show Class in Eastern Classic.

Scapa Flow, the only Maryland horse in the race who beat Scapa Flow last week, started out to run for the money when Crystal Domino, the Chicago horse, finally was brought into line after a five minutes of rearing and fraying at the post and the paddock was sent over to the track. Scapa Flow closed and beat every other starter except her own stablemate, Bubbling Over.

William Daniel's Justice F. looked lean and drawn parading to the post. His long, hard winter campaign is beginning to show on him. It had not been decided here tonight whether to send him to the Derby, although it was reported that his owner wants to give his friends in Chicago who wagered on the colt in the future book a run for their money.

Harry Payne Whitney collected $55,100 for Bostonian's victory and $2,000 more for Whiskery's finish in third. Second money was $5,000.

The Preakness has now run 36 times if you will have history. It was named for a colt that won the Dinner Party stakes 60 years ago.

Derby Hope III

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 9.—Hydromel, which finished so strongly in the mile feature at Churchill Downs today, became a doubtful starter in the Derby when he developed a temperature of 103 after the race. Danny Stewart, watching from the infirmary, could not account for the colt's lack of early speed, so summing up, "He's a miler." Every effort will be made to curb the fever, and send Hydromel to the post.

It was with a sigh and a smile of confidence that these earthers won up the red letter day at old Pimlico. "Let the west try and beat this horse," was the opinion voiced on every corner.

From out of the Preakness strife, the east has come with one of the mightiest Derby hands it ever had, Bostonian and Whiskery, which finished third and first in the Preakness, were bought back home to the Whitney stables took them downstairs where a number of lavish gentlemen standing behind wire screened windows bought them back at generous prices. The champions are scheduled to meet the local Sparta team at Soldiers' Field on Sunday and the Bricklayers on May 22.

Everywhere the South Americans have gone their playing has been praised highly. They have lost only one game, while winning six and tying two with the leading clubs in this country.

SMITTY—THE BOY HE DIDN'T LEAVE BEHIND

Fans Jeer as McTigue Wins Over M'Carthy

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, May 9.—A joke is a joke, but Mike McTigue and Pat McCarthy carried their little jest too far tonight to suit the 11,500 fans who paid $41,403 to see what was advertised as a boxing match.

A majority of the fans who saw Michael and Patrick tug and haul through ten terrible rounds opined it would be a good idea if both batters were included among the boxers now listed as vacationists by the New York boxing commission.

Michael got the decision but it was no credit to him.

Tough on the Referee.

About twelve clean punches were landed all evening and the fans jeered and boozed throughout the bout. referee Jim Crowley worked harder in the clinches than the principals. George Partridge and Harold Barnes, the judges should have brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree. For it was that and nothing less painful for the customers who were game enough to stick around to the bitter end.

As principal character witness for McTigue, Manager Jimmy Johnston was around explaining that Mike's pathetic showing was attributed to his left arm. Jimmy proved his alibi by sending Michael in with one of those elastic bandages wrapped around Michael's right elbow.

McTigue Forces Fighting.

It was a sad fight for a boxer who expects to be appointed as logical contender for Jack Delaney's lightweight title. But in justice to Michael it must be stated that he tried hard to make a fight of it only to have his efforts quashed by McCarthy's refusal to let him on his ground.

McTigue tried hard to knock Pat off in the closing stanzas but Patrick succeeded in carrying out his intention which seemed to be to go the route no matter who it hurt.

Forbes and Ruth Draw in Fast 10 Round Bout

Fight Decisions

At Atlantic City, N. J.—Harry Billman knocked out Dave Addison [1].

At Philadelphia—Lewis [10] Kaplan beat Tommie McGehee [10].

At New York—Mike McTigue beat Pat McCarthy [10]. George La Roche beat Eddie Blue [10]. Arthur De Kub stopped Leo Giese [10].

At Worcester, Pa.—Pete Latta knocked out John Esposito [1].

A clean cut decision over George Lamarr. It was a slugfest most of the way, with Roberts having the best of the exchanges. They squared 162% pounds.

Pete Pauley won the four round decision over Ken Conroy, a 10-round bout at 161 pounds. Joe Shelman won the 10th round over Joey Franks, who was substituted for Joe Pats, in the second round. Pats showed up at weighing in time in such poor condition that the commission refused to sanction his appearance. Earl Mastrangelo handed Johnny Caserio a lacing in the third bout, and Frankie Kennard defeated Norman Brown in the other preliminary.

In the other bouts, Frank LaMark gained a 20 minute decision over Jack Sperling; George Hanson threw Eddie Pope in 22:16 with a crotch hold, and Jimmy Logas pinned Gus Johnson in 22:59 by using a headlock.

CHARLEY FISHER THROWS TALABER IN ARMORY SHOW

Lou Talaber, former middleweight wrestling champion, was no match for Charley Fisher last night in the main event of the wrestling show at the Broadway armory. Fisher, who is only five feet three but built on the same proportions as a man standing over six feet, threw Talaber in straightaways, winning the first in 48:55 and the second in 11:05. Both falls came when Fisher applied a crotch and half Nelson.

In the other bouts, Frank LaMark gained a 20 minute decision over Jack Sperling; George Hanson threw Eddie Pope in 22:16 with a crotch hold, and Jimmy Logas pinned Gus Johnson in 22:59 by using a headlock.

A new bat... fastest ever made
built at the request of champions

TENNIS rackets were too slow for the modern brand of tennis. That was the way the champions put it. The smashing, all-court game of today needed a far faster bat. A group of famous players asked Spalding if it could be built.

After making 500 experimental rackets, Spalding got the fastest tennis racket ever made. A bat combining the ideas of some of the world's leading players—every star who tried it out was enthusiastic about it—and with it, both men and women champions won many of last year's important tournaments.

Now you can buy it—the new Spalding Top-Flite. Lighter head—yet in perfect balance. Smaller head, which permits tighter stringing. Kro-Bat construction to give it the strength for many restrings. Open throat, which gives it a new, delightful flexibility. There is a Top-Flite here which will suit you exactly. Come and find your Top-Flite. Price $15.

W. W. G. A. TAKES NO ACTION ON MARY K. BROWNE

Ruling Awaits Her Entry Into Tournament.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

The first meeting of the Women's Western Golf association since Miss Mary K. Browne was deprived of her amateur standing by the United States Golf association arrived and passed yesterday. The same seven directors met. A decision on Miss Browne's standing awaits the time when she may enter a Western association tournament.

Mrs. Robert M. Cutting, president of the association, limited herself to the statement: "We took no action in Miss Browne's case." The attitude of the board members seems to be, however, there are enough wars in golf now without unnecessarily starting a new one by throwing down the gauntlet to the U. S. G. A. in declaring Miss Browne untainted by C. C. Pyle's ten-sis.

As the matter now stands there is one possibility the W. W. G. A. may rule on Miss Browne's standing, and that is should she enter one of the tournaments. As an honorary member of the Los Angeles Country club, which is a member of the W. W. G. A., Miss Browne might enter the Western championship. Should she do so the directors would rule on her standing after she had entered.

There is at least an even chance and possibly better that in such event the Western women would stand back of the California star, but it is almost a certainty that Miss Browne will not enter any tourney to date.

She has expressed no resentment against the U. S. G. A. ruling and it is the belief of nearly every one close to her that she will not chance placing the women's association in an embarrassing position.

Ad Pone No. 38 of the American Legion drove off for the golf season at Lincoln Park at the Sherman yesterday with about 200 men, listening to words of wisdom on the game by Jack Daray, Joe Davis, Joe Newell, Gunnar Nelson, P. A. Vale, James Foulls, and others. Foulls, national open champion in 1896, gave the duffers some heart by his description of the golf course of thirty years ago, when "the fairways were thirty yards wide and if a golfer found the rough he lost the ball. Even if he found the ball he had to stroke to get it out."

The Legionnaires will hold their first tournament at Glen Oak Field tomorrow and the second at Olympia Fields June 21. Play Friday will be nine holes in the morning and eighteen in the afternoon.

The Nordic Country club will join in the relief of flood victims by holding an open golf tournament tomorrow. The course will be open to everyone with a green fee of $2, all of which will go to the flood relief fund. The course, which was opened for the season last Sunday, is reported in excellent condition and permanent greens are in use.

Chicago dentists have arranged an extensive program of tournaments this summer, according to Dr. E. D. Dunn, secretary of the Chicago Dental Golf club. The first meet will be held on May 18 at the Green Valley Country club, and plans are being completed for tournaments at Glen Oak, Southmoor, Illinois, Midlothian, Butterfield, and for a big two day meet in September when the dental golf championship of the city will be decided.

GOVERNMENT ESTIMATE MAKES
WHEAT CROP 593,940,000 BUSHELS

A winter wheat crop $59,940,000 bu is indicated by the government report for May, issued late yesterday. It compares with $70,000,000 bu as the unofficial estimate in April and with 157,000,000 bu as the average of the four Chicago statisticians who issued their statements last week.

In May last year it was $48,000,000 bu compared with $45,000,000 bu the same month in 1925, and $53,000,000 bu in May, 1924. Last year's final returns were 627,000,000 bu, with 402,000,000 bu in 1925 and 552,000,000 bu in 1924, and a 10 year average of 572,887,000 bu. Details by states with condition, production, and full abandoned acreage will be issued today.

The preliminary report gives the abandoned acreage at 1,550,000, which was not expected, leaving 35,701,000 for harvest. Condition on May 1 of 85.6 was nearly the same as the average of private reports and compared with 84.5 in May, 1926.

The rye crop is given as 47,000,000 bu, compared with 40,000,000 bu harvested last year and a ten year average of 47,000,000 bu. The condition is 83.3, compared with 81.5 last year and ten year average of 83.1.

WEATHER REPORT INSPIRES BUYING; WHEAT ADVANCES

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Rain or snow over the spring wheat belt, with storms in the southwest, led to general buying of wheat with nearby deliveries at a new high on the present movement, while the September sold at a new high on the crop, touching 34.34¢. May acted tight and went to around 7¢ over the July, the widest difference in some time, against 6¢ on Saturday, and closed above the top with 34.34¢. The crop is 1.44¢ to 1.44¢, while the deferred deliveries were 1¢ to 1.4¢ higher with July 1.37¢ to 1.37¢ and September, 1.34¢ to 1.34¢.

Scattered liquidation was on in corn, early, longs selling rather freely on the political situation at Springfield, Ill., and caused a decline of 1.4¢ to 1.4¢, but it was more than recovered later, and the finish was 1.4¢ higher. May closed at 79¢ to 80¢; July, 81¢ to 82¢; and September, 82¢. Oats were 4¢ higher to 4¢ lower with May, 48¢; July, 49¢; and September, 49¢. Rye was 4¢ higher with May 31.10¢ and July 31.05¢.

Larger Trade in Wheat.

Strong commission houses were persistent buyers of wheat futures and there was also local buying, many evening up for the government report due after the close.

Local demand was slow with sales of 300,000 bu. to 400,000 bu. in all sections, largely durums with a little red winter. Liverpool gained 1.4¢ to 1.4¢, with speculative buying on the unfavorable weather in Canada a factor. Visible supply decreased 3,527,000 bu. for the week, and is 34,768,000 bu. against 26,236,000 bu. last year.

Wet Weather Helps Crops.

Wet weather over the entire corn belt, which promises to seriously delay plowing and planting finally offset the fears of scattered longs who liquidated their holdings early, and with aggressive buying by locals and shorts an early break was more than recovered. The spot basis was steady to 1.4¢ higher with shipping demand still slow. Visible supply decreased 1,771,000 bu. but the week, and is 34,948,000 bu. against 28,837,000 bu. last year.

Houses with northwestern connections sold oats 1.4¢, but market firmed up later with other grains. Cash basis was 1.4¢ higher. Export bids were received at the seaboard, but no sales were indicated.

Rye held within a range of 3¢ to 3¢ with May selling up to 1.11¢, a new high, but trade was not large. Export sales of 200,000 bu. were reported at the seaboard.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC
SHOWS BUSINESS IS BACK IN STRIDE

BY O. A. MATHER.

The business of the country is getting into its stride again, following interruptions caused by the Mississippi floods and the coal strikes. This is the testimony of the weekly report on the railroad movement of commodities. For the fourth time this year loadings of revenue freight have exceeded the million car mark. The total for the week ended April 30 was 1,028,440 cars, an increase of 71,225 over the preceding week and an gain of 31,032 over the corresponding week last year. The movement of all commodities except coke, was substantially larger than in the preceding week, but particularly prominent were the large gains shown by miscellaneous merchandise and less than car-load freight, which constitute "trade barometers."

Improvement in Oil Industry.

Several of the basic industries also produced cheerful news. From the petroleum industry came word that crude oil production in California last week showed a decline of 17,860 barrels a day from the previous week. Oil companies shut in additional wells with a capacity of 23,000 barrels a day to offset anticipated increasing output in the Seal Beach field. The Texas and Continental Oil companies advanced gasoline prices.

In the steel industry operations in the Youngstown district were reported as averaging about 75 per cent of capacity, with the United States Steel corporation plants at 89 and the independents around 70 per cent. In the Chicago district the Inland Steel company today will advance prices of steel sheets by $2 a ton, following the lead of other independent concerns recently.

Drop in Steel Input Output.

While steel input last month was lower than in March, it was higher than in April last year. Last month's output is calculated at 4,129,852 tons by the American Iron and Steel Institute, compared with 4,054,926 in March and 4,109,700 in April. Total production for the four months this year totalled 16,491,677 last year. Operations last month averaged 84.6 per cent of capacity.

From the automobile industry, the Oakland Motor Car company reported a new monthly sales record last month at 19,425 cars. Sales for the four months this year totalled 75,618, compared with 35,309 last year. April sales of the Studebaker corporation were 12,912 cars, compared with 11,192 a year ago. The Peerless Motor Car company announced its production schedule this year at 20,000 cars.

Record Chain Store Sales.

From the chain store field came the news that the Applebees of the twelve leading cities totalled $86,212,000, a new high record and an increase of 17 per cent over a year ago. Sales for the four months this year totalled $200,565,457, a gain of 17 per cent over last year.

The building construction industry is holding up fairly well, although showing a moderate decline from the record breaking pace of last year. Bradstreet's review says returns from 140 cities show a total for last month of $297,491,665, compared with $304,818,888 in March, and $305,913,100 in April last year. The total for the four months this year was $1,095,482,533, a decline of slightly more than 7 per cent from the same period last year.

HYDRO POWER OUTPUT IN MARCH SETS NEW RECORD

BY HARPER LEECH.

Only a slight reflection of the great floods of 1927 is discernible in the statistics of the output of electric power for the first three months of the year made public by the geological survey. Output of hydro power for March 1927 was the highest of history, almost reaching a total of 2,600,000,000 kilowatt hours. But it is difficult to distinguish between increases of power due to a abundance of water and increases due to the installation of more plants. The percentage of all power generated by water in March last was only 38, whereas there have been months in which hydro contributed 40 per cent of the country's total.

It has frequently happened that the output of hydro electricity in a dry year has exceeded the previous output of a wet year, so marked has been the extension of plant from year to year. With the cheap money now in prospect for some years we can confidently look forward to the development of many more important sources of hydro-electric energy.

First costs are the great item in water power. Some days ago this writer inspected the foundations of a new hydro plant to cost $18,000,000. A steam plant of equal capacity could have been built for $12,000,000 to deliver power at remarkably low cost, but when the varying rates of depreciation are figured in, it is still economical to put 50 per cent more capacity in hydro development.

When located right and with full information as to past stream flow, water power plants, instead of depreciating, actually appreciate. There is a plant in the southeast completed in 1907 which is today 70 per cent more valuable than was the day it was completed.

Building of other plants upstream has so regulated the flow of its driving river that its capacity for continuous power output has been increased 70 per cent, with only a relatively small investment in additional generating machinery necessary.

The general idea that high water necessarily means an increase of power capacity needs modification. High water drowns out many plants built on the lower reaches of large streams and diminishes the output of other such plants by raising the level under their dams, and thus reducing the working head of the water. It frequently happens that flood periods increase the power output of plants up stream and diminish the output down stream at the same time. When the water goes lower there is a reversal.

VAN SWERINGENS TO PROPOSE NEW MERGER TODAY

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Washington, D. C., May 9.—(Special)—Advocates of unification of the Chesapeake and Ohio, Hocking Valley, Erie, and Pere Marquette railroads, headed by O. P. Van Sweringen, will appear tomorrow before the interstate commerce commission at the opening hearing on the revised Van Sweringen merger plan. Opposition to the plan will be led by a determined group of minority stockholders.

The merger now proposed omits the Nickel Plate, which was the stem of the original Van Sweringen system that was dismantled by a court decision after months of hearings. Minority stockholders of the Chesapeake and Ohio blocked the original plan. The same group of stockholders, minus a few who are now lined up with the Van Sweringen interests, will oppose the new merger plan.

The Chesapeake and Ohio, under the new plan, asks authority to acquire control of the Erie and Pere Marquette railroads by purchase of stock and to issue $9,502,400 of additional common stock. The plan, as proposed, in part, in connection with the acquisition of the Erie and Pere Marquette. The Hocking Valley already is controlled by the Chesapeake and Ohio, of which O. P. Van Sweringen is chairman.

WALL STREET NOTES

NEW YORK, May 8.—(AP)—Demand for public utility issues overshadowed other transactions in today's curb market. Industrials were quiet on the whole. Granby 7s yielded a point on profit taking. Pinter & Gamble, after a new high of 108, for gain of 2 points. A new peak also was reached by Bantam corporation at 117. Motions were mixed. Auburn advancing a point, while Marion and Durant closed lower on the day.

United Gas Improvement registered a new high of 107%, closing for a net gain of 1%. and shares of Mohawk Valley and Mohawk Hudson were in active demand. Oils were reactionary. Humble declined more than a point on the day, while Standard Oil of New Jersey showed only fractional changes.

Responding to the strength and activity of banking issues in the big board, similar issues moved upward. General Banking A. United Blawie, and Louis Wanke when last and now gain 2 points. A few others a few points were active. Safeway Stores selling up 7 points and St. Regis Paper 5.

Stimulated by prospects of continued easy money, the bond market displayed a few undulations. Demand centers largely in high grade investment issues, with treasury obligations taking the lead. A gain of nearly half a point in treasury 3% was the outstanding feature.

Sophy Tancred's Husbands

By ELIZABETH YORK MILLER.

SYNOPSIS. Sophy and Piers Tancred have lately taken the Villa Mona at Brookhaven on the Italian river. Sophy learns that her former husband, Alan Brooke, the sculptor, is jealous of her and that they are to meet at dinner that night. She is afraid of her husband's jealousy and, since he thought she was a widow when he married her, she goes to Brooke's studio to warn him. Cristina, telling Piers that they have been married, Alan tells Sophy that his housekeeper, Cristina, is his wife and they have a little son, Willie Moppet, a male ghost of Brookhaven, who loves Sophy. Piers, confused, thinks that the princess she is meeting is Mrs. Brooke, recalling their studies in art. Piers tells the princess she is Lilia Brant, a friend of Piers, and Willie Moppet tries to unravel the mystery of Sophy's past.

Willie Moppet stops at the Cafe Galle for a drink and encounters Piers with a pretty little Swiss girl. Piers is palpably embarrassed. The next morning Willie and Piers meet in the garden of Alan's studio while Alan is at work with Sophy as his model.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.
CRISTINA SPEAKS OUT.

The sun was blazing into the studio now, making it very hot, and Alan went over to let down the heavy shutters with a bang. It was seldom that he did this, but work for him was over for today and perhaps for many a day to come. A glowing, semi-decked twilight filled the big room. shafts of sunlight struck like golden swords between the bars, quivering with motes of dust.

"I wonder what Piers is doing?" Sophy murmured uneasily. "Shouldn't we go out?"

"Cristina will call us," Alan said. He felt sullen and weary, altogether dreary. "O, well, we might as well go. But kiss me, first. Kiss me as you used to, Sophy. I want to know that you do care—that you do love me."

She was kissing him lips passionately. What if Piers were to come back? Cristina? It did not seem to matter. But presently she pushed him gently away. "Now we'll go. They'll begin to wonder."

In the long stone corridor they came upon Cristina lurking half-eaten, and knew that she had seen.

Sophy flushed and hurried on ahead into the garden, while Alan Brooke's wife asked him something about an omelette and said that everything else

All Husbands Lie—Wives Make 'Em, Asserts One Writer

BY DORIS BLAKE.

In a recent article in Liberty magazine, Charles J. McGuirk, writer, proposes the theory that the only husband in captivity who never lied to his wife is the man with a wife who never asked him a question.

Mr. McGuirk, a fearless male, and a non-believer, apparently, in the existence of a wife who can keep from asking questions, baldly asserts that "All husbands are liars because their wives have made them that way."

We were going to propose that wives ask their husbands if the accusation is true. But maybe their answers might be too revealing than Thomas McGuirk to be just another damning piece of evidence. On sober second thought, perhaps the subject had better not be brought up, at all.

In one household, under observation, it was argued. The husband said, no he never lied to his wife.

The wife said: "You're doing it now."

And the husband said: "McGuirk's right. They do make you that way."

It's a dangerous topic—and if the boys are getting away with it and the girls are getting satisfied with a good story—better ask him how he liked your new bonnet, instead.

The defense offered for the male's evasion of the whole truth and nothing but when a wife shoots a sudden question at him is "to keep peace in the family," which Mr. McGuirk admits is true as far as it goes—but the real reason lies deeper, he explains. "It is an unconscious memory inherited from their millions of husband ancestors. It is the instinctive knowledge that a wife will believe a lie quicker food chopper—season with salt if necessary, and with a few grinds of white pepper. Put this into a buttered casserole, cover with baking dish, barely cover it with cream, sprinkle with dry bread crumbs, and bake in the oven until the cream boils.

It is highly desirable that the bread ruspings—not real crumbs, though called often—be highly palatable in flavor. Then this may be an excellent and even an elegant little thing for the home cook when she is entertaining friends. It can be prepared some time in advance, kept cold and be ready for the bread crumbs and butter. There are ways of garnishing and managing it to make it dainty and ornate.

Mrs. Howard Shaw to Receive Medal Awarded Husband

BY NANCY R.—

When Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw and her daughter, Mrs. Clay Judson, leave Chicago on Thursday, they will set out on an interesting and a distinguished mission.

At the invitation of the American Institute of Architects, they are going to Washington, where, on Friday, they will be presented with the gold medal for architectural achievement awarded last year by the Institute to the late Howard Shaw.

The medal is the highest honor at the disposal of the Institute, and its awarding came just a year ago when Shaw was stricken with the illness that resulted so tragically soon in his death, so that the presentation could not take place.

Fellow architects, commenting at the time on the award, characterized Mr. Shaw as "one of the finest artists in the profession," whose work is notable for its originality and distinctive American character, "neatly interpreting traditional forms, rather than following them slavishly."

After the presentation of the medal, Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. Judson expect to spend a few days in New York before returning to this part of the world. As to their plans for the summer, the Judsons will continue to occupy the John T. McCutcheon house in Lake Forest, where they've been established since November, while Mr. and Mrs. McCutcheon (Evelyn Shaw) and their two sprightly young sons, Jackie and Shaw, will go out for the warm weather months to Ragdale. Mrs. Shaw's Lake Forest place, to be with Mr. Shaw and her young daughter, Frances Theodore.

Doctors and good pharmacists know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitamins that make flesh, create appetite, build up the power to resist disease and put good solid flesh on skinny men and women. But it's repulsive in taste and smell and nearly every stomach rebels against it.

Now men and women who keep up with the times are taking McCoy Cod Liver Oil Compound Tonic—rich in flesh-producing, heat-building, strength-creating vitamins and as easy to take as candy.

They try for 30 days. If you want to fill out those scrawny hollows in chest, cheeks and neck and gain strength and vigor. And bear this in mind, if they don't help you in time, your druggist anywhere will return your money. But demand McCoy's 60 tablets 60 cents.

Fellow architects, commenting at the time on the award, characterized Mr. Shaw as "one of the finest artists in the profession," whose work is notable for its originality and distinctive American character, "neatly interpreting traditional forms, rather than following them slavishly."

After the presentation of the medal, Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. Judson expect to spend a few days in New York before returning to this part of the world. As to their plans for the summer, the Judsons will continue to occupy the John T. McCutcheon house in Lake Forest, where they've been established since November, while Mr. and Mrs. McCutcheon (Evelyn Shaw) and their two sprightly young sons, Jackie and Shaw, will go out for the warm weather months to Ragdale. Mrs. Shaw's Lake Forest place, to be with Mr. Shaw and her young daughter, Frances Theodore.

Parker of Winnetka; Mrs. Walter Dill Scott of Evanston and Mrs. Leverett Thompson of Lake Forest, vice-presidents; Mrs. Arthur Byfield of Highland park, recording secretary; Mrs. Alexander O. The plan was to be submitted to the ministers getting higher salaries.

The proposal was presented by a committee of three, the Revs. John Thompson, Warren N. Clark, and Horace G. Smith, and was commended by a half dozen other ministers with salaries high and low.

The plan was to be submitted to the ministers getting higher salaries.

There are forty-three ministers in the conference who receive less than $2,000 and house a year," said the Rev. Mr. Clark, pastor of the Community church, West 50th and Honors streets. "I have been called a radical, but I consider the plan simply one of putting in practice what we preach."

We pass resolutions calling on industries that cannot or will not pay a living wage to close up or reorganize. It is time for the church to adopt the same principle."

Others who approved the plan were: Dr. Joseph H. Hinckley, Evanston; the Rev. Dr. St. John, First Park church; the Rev. C. Claud Travis, Epworth church, Edgewater; the Rev. J. H. Odgers, district superintendent, all of whom are among the larger salaried men who will be called on for contributions, and the Rev. T. E. Ream, the Rev. J. H. Williams, and the Rev. ## RAILWAYS FIGHT PAY INCREASE ON FARM CONDITIONS

Income of Western Lines Too Low, Board Told.

The keynote upon which western railroads will base their opposition to demands of their trainmen and conductors for a wage increase of $1 a day was sounded yesterday by Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific railroad, before the board of arbitration.

Early yesterday the representatives of the railroad employees completed their side of the controversy. Mr. Donnelly was called as first witness by the western roads and he asserted that the particular wage increase would stand an increase in rates and pointed out earnings of the western roads were less than those of the east.

Mr. Donnelly said the wage increase sought by trainmen and conductors would cost the Northern Pacific railroad approximately $500,000 a year.

Net Return Only 4.65 Per Cent.

The property of the Northern Pacific railroad represented in 1926 a total investment of $597,456,756," said Mr. Donnelly. "The net operating income of the company for that year was $34,213,700, representing a return of 4.65 per cent on the investment."

"This result was the best for any year since the war. Our net railway operating income in 1926 fell short by more than $5,000,000 of producing the return of 5 per cent upon this value, to which under the law we are entitled."

Mr. Donnelly told the board of mediation that, while at the present time the outlook for good crops is favorable, the western railroads cannot expect their gross revenues for 1927 to exceed or equal the gross revenue of last year.

Profits Cut in Income.

"On the other hand," he testified, "we estimate that expenses and taxes will exceed those of 1926 and our net operating income in 1927 will fall below that of last year, on the basis of the present wage scale."

"Like other western roads we have expended in the last few years large sums of money in the installation of devices whose effect is to reduce the hazards of employment and in maintaining our plan of group insurance and pension. On these we expend annually more than $500,000."

K. F. Burgess, counsel for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, estimated the increase demanded by the trainmen and conductors and which will have to be passed along to other employees, would cost western roads $25,000,000.

DRY LEAGUE NOT ALL FOR HAYNES, EDWARDS SAYS

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—The pressure being exerted by the Anti-Saloon league's national officers "upon" President Coolidge and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to force the permanent appointment of Roy A.
